It could, ren2 is just a slightly modified renegade engine. But if you were to play online, you will never get smooth gameplay.

10,000 polys. I dont think so.... Renegade 2 Would have had its own game engine and would

NOT be run on renegades engine.

Wow, look at these things:

Wonder how much polygons that is.

Looks like a cross breed of a Nod Logo and Soviet Logo (RA2 one).

Uh, Renegade 2 was using the original engine. The engine can handle that just fine. Try making a level with 60,000 polygons with regular textures and run it, you'll probably get the same FPS. I'm tired of everyone being afraid of polygons. POLYGONS DON'T MATTER.

A while back, some RA2 models (kirov and others) were released, ostensibly from Renegade 2.

Most of those models have 3D data that is NOT in any format I can understand.

It appears to be some kind of "evolution" of the current Renegade format for meshes.

In any case, that proves that Renegade 2 had engine improvements over Renegade.
