Last night on mIRC I said I was too tired to look up lots of links to support 100,000 disenfranchised voters... Damn that Katherine Harris.

First, a history. Florida hasn't been plagued by voter disenfranchisement simply in the 2000 election....

Looks like those 94,000 are still without a vote, because if they got one, Jeb Bush would lose to another candidate. And we can't have that, now, can we?

More later, if necessary.

I wish you retards would go look up Florida laws.

In the state of Florida anyone who serves jail time is not allowed to vote. The person can get their vote back if they ask for it by a judge. These people were not disenfranchised. They were simply criminals that hadn't gotten their vote back.

Oh, and not even half of the voters barred from voting were black. Most where white. The link to this information is somewhere on CNN, If I find it I will post it.

Crimson, I was just making a guess from what I've seen last night on mIRC.

Nodbugger, you don't know what the hell you are talking about. of course, felons are not allowed to vote, but [i]not[/i>-felons are allowed to vote. Katherine Harris...wait, I won't even bother explaining it to you. Go be an ignorant fool somewhere else.

I'm not an ignorant fool you are, everyone that was supposedly disenfranchised were 99% criminal and were unaware of this law. Go look it up if you don't believe me.
