Yes, it's really unfair. Sadly this argument was used as an excuse for losing a clan game once. We had nearly reached the Hand of Nod on Islands before they could load and they were stuck defending and ended up getting killed by our soldiers over and over trying to defend and lost the building... then cried about it because "we are college students and we can't afford fast loading machines".

In most clanwars its rule that both teams wait until everyone loaded and then everyone suicides.

I think thats fair.

1) This was the clan war that started making that a rule. This was back when Renegade clanning was in its infancy and WL dominated everyone.

2) This was the 6th of a 7-map match and no one had bitched before.

No, this is how the WL/CW rivalry began. n00bstories is only part of it now because WL is no longer a clan nor do they play Renegade.

lol, yea, I must of spent at least £400 in mine in upgrading it so it plays renny smoothly. Why should I suffer because of someone else who cannot afford anything more than an atari?

ya I was just posting how redicoulous some people think...

sure playing at 60fps constant with 32 players on the screen v.s. 12 fps is a big difference, but honesty, getting rid of the bigheads and final rens is good enough...

I snipe slightly better with my 45fps at high detail then 15 at low on my old computer. But when it comes to orcas/apaches and apcs i can actually use them in big games now and hs no problem. You could always wait 3 years until everyone has atleast 60fps

I don't by one until i've sniped most of them, really in a 40 player game full with all buildings i'd get shot down once every 10 minutes unless their whole team is havocs.

AircraftkillerUntil you get shot down in two seconds by a loser with a n00b cannon ramjet "sniper" rifle...

Belive it or not, i've heard many times that you say its not possible to shoot down a helicopter with a sniper rifle in real life, but that is not true.

Many types of firearms can be purchased that easily in the United States. Few of them, however, would be as dangerous in the hands of terrorists. A .50-caliber sniper rifle, experts say, would be more than capable of shooting down an airliner as it took off or landed. Indeed, aimed properly, this weapon could be as effective as a shoulder-fired anti-aircraft missile, such as the one used by terrorists in an unsuccessful attack on an Israeli passenger plane in Kenya in November. A .50-caliber rifle, by contrast, sells for as little as $1,250 at Potomac Arms in Alexandria. Incendiary rounds, which ignite on impact, cost roughly $2 a piece and are also essentially unregulated.

Info about this can be found just about anywhere. So next time you think that its impossible, just think about if the driver, or gas tank were shot at from the right angle

I'm not sure I would compare shooting at a passenger plane that has wings filled with 20,000 gallons of fuel and a 1/8th inch sheet metal skin to firing at an armored attack or transport chopper that was designed to repel small arms fire, and yes a sniper rifle is included in the definition of "small arms", even 50 cal ones.

I only have a 700mhz cpu and 256 RAM, so at best my computer can run renegade at about 10fps and 4fps as soon as theres something like a flammer on screen. yes it does effect how good i am, perticualy sniping.

But i dont go around saying that its unfair... anyone who thinks its uinfair if someone has a faster PC needs needs to get a life as its only a game. And if someone has that much of a problem with it they shud just upgrade there PC or not bother playing renny.

**Gasp** someone with a slower machine than mine!!!

Yes, I run at 7 to 12 fps as well, and can't snipe worth a darn, however us old computers can still be quite good, like taking down buildings, tank driving, and most of all engie support.

Making a frame limiter in an unofficial patch would be the most retarded thing ever, and it would only make everyone who whines about it happy.

Don't take away my turbo mode.
