3 Years ago all of our lives and the world we live in was changed forever. Its a day all of us will never forget, forever burned into our memorys. I still rember it like it was yesterday.

I remeber all of the things i saw on TV, i rember my thoughts feelings as i heard the words come over the loud speaker at school. It gives me chills thinking about it It was the first time i ever shed a tear because of something i saw on television.

Today is a day to remeber those we lost that day, remeber your thoughts and feelings, never forget.

God bless those on the flights that crashed into the WTC, Pentegon and the field in Pennylvaina. God bless the brave fire fighters and Policemen that lost there lives trying to do there job, god bless those who just went to work that morning and never came back, god bless the familys of all lost, God bless America.

I think it goes with out being said, if you have an unkind statment don't say it, show respect please.

As cow said, the memory of that day is forever etched into my brain. The thoughts and feelings that I had that day. The time that I heard about it. The disbelief about how something like this could happen. The pacing up and down the halls with a couple of friends discussing the horrible situation. The thought of how the towers weren't gonna come down, but then hearing just minutes later that the first tower had collapased. The reports on who the possible terrorists were, and then hearing the name Bin Laden being spread throughout the accusations. I remember taking the one history test right after lunch and the kids protesting the test and hoping we could take it at a later day. I can still remember that night. I remember going to Drivers Training and not paying attention for the most part because I was thinking of the situation. I remember going home and we had the news on and were watching them putting out the fires. I remember trying to get my mind off of the situation and trying to sleep, but then having no luck. I remember playing two songs throughout the time that I lay in bed. Those two songs are still in my memory. They are Shaggy - Angel, and Uncle Kracker - Follow Me. I remember those songs helping, but not putting me to sleep. I remember going downstairs when everybody else was asleep and starting to flip through channels. I remember stopping on Three's Company and watching it for a couple hours until I couldn't stay awake any longer.

9/11/2001.....
GodBlessAmerica

First Week Of Freshman Year at my highschool. We had a FireDrill during my art 3rd Period Then soon after in period 4 spanish the announcement that i would never forget came over the PA system. It was the princible informing the school that this has happened

"Good Morning As some of you may already threw cell phones or pagers" (i had no idea) "there was a terror attack on the world trade center at aproxomity 8:46 and 9:03" (I immediately thought a bomb then i went back to the other terror attack on thecenter that i new almost nothing about) "I would just like to inform you that des world trade pite rumor's school will go on for the rest of day Thank You"

The announcement stoped and people were talking about it in class no one new what happened and unfortunetly i had the kind of teacher that just wanted us to get back to work she didnt even seem to care about the terror attack.

Period ended and the halls were buzzing.

A few more periods past until I got to english and Global History i have them right in a row so for both periods (80) minutes we talked about it thats when i learned about Bin Laden and all that.

Unfortunetly none of my teachers would let us watch the tv to see what was going on.

As i walked home from school the roads seems silent.

I got home to see my mom standing infront of the tv on the phone with my uncle.

I went upstairs and immeditly turned on CNN to see for the verry first time the towers burning.

My dad got home a few minutes later, he had been aloud to leave work early.

I remember walking out side trying to see if i could see the smoke from my long island house because i had heard that it had been blown east.

I must of watched them fall atleast 100 times that day because of all the new's stations.

I remember hearing how many people lost there lives over and over again

This was also the first time i shead a tear for something i saw on tv.....

RIP Everyone who died on that fate full day...

About a few days before 9/11, I was in Ohio to visit my Grandpa and go down to Florida, he died by cancer before we got there. On 9/11, I remember waking up on the couch and seeing my mom and relatives watching TV, saying "Oh my gosh" a lot... I got up and looked on the TV, and I saw the second plane hit one of the towers Live on TV. It scared the crap out of me, and it was very, very sad... We weren't able to go down to Florida for more than a week, since they shut down the airports for a while.

I remember my dad called me and woke me up. He told me that terrorists had flown planes into the World Trade Center and the Pentagon. I asked him who did it, and he said it was Osama Bin Laden. (He knew as soon as he heard because he keeps up on current events) Being sleepy, I didn't think much of it, so I told him I'd watch the news (just wanting to get him off the phone so I could go back to sleep)... I said "Which channel?"... he said "ALL OF THEM!" Then I realized this was something serious and I woke up and turned on the TV. Of course once the TV was on and I was waking up I started to understand the seriousness of what was happening... the possibility that we could still be attacked.

I talked to friends online for a few hours before I had to go to work. One of the guys was a dentist and didn't have a TV to watch so he had to rely on us relaying the news to him. I had the TV turned up so I could hear it in my office and I'd run to look whenever the news changed.

When I got to work, no one was working. I did third tier technical support at that time and the department manager told us not to call anyone, so we pretty much just watched TV. Eventually he told us that we could go home if we wanted to and use a vacation day. (Later on, the company decided not to dock vacation time for not working that day because of a "national disaster")

I got home and I didn't want to be alone in the house, so I went to my dad's house and we all sat glued to the TV. It was the longest day of my life. It was strange for those couple of days to know that I wouldn't be able to find a plane in the sky. That part made it more real to me, instead of something I was seeing on TV.

My sister lives in upstate New York and at the time, she was an EMT. She and several of her co-workers drove down to the city to volunteer their help. She finally got to Ground Zero at about 10pm that night and helped search all night. She was sent home the next morning when it became apparent that there weren't going to be enough survivors to need many people with EMT credentials.

But then i got to 4th period. My teacher had the TV on CNN. I looked up at it and almost burst into tears. I had actually made jokes about such an awful thing. When i got home i just stayed in my room and watched CNN the rest of the day, and about three more days after that.

Okay, that sounds like a plan, considering you Europeans do the same thing and only consider yourselves.

Your opinion will hold some weight when you actually get the UN to do something about the crisis in Sudan, but hey, genocide doesn't matter to you until it happens in Europe. Sometimes I think you people would have been better off under Hitler, maybe you'd have learned some sort of humility and care for the human race as a whole and not just self-preservation of your backwards nations.

I love that, "grow up because you don't meet my standards of what I believe is maturity, as if your standards of maturity are what I believe in...

I like generalizing, because I don't see you Europeans as a whole community doing anything but self-preservation and trying to make yourselves look intimidating after losing almost all of your power through the years. I don't see you doing anything about Sudan. Why? You were more than happy to save the Jewish people from Hitler as a byproduct of trying to reclaim your occupied lands...

But you won't support helping others (Iraq, Afganistan, Sudan) that are being murdered and whole sale slaughtered... It just doesn't have any incentive for you, does it? Why you adamantly oppose ever attacking anyone else for any reason at all (Well, except for Italy, Britian and a few other European nations - go you) is because you conveniently happen to have some oil contracts with the local dictator. Just can't come out and say "We don't want you to attack them because they have oil we need," because your governments would look like the sadistic motherfuckers they really are... "Oil is more important to us than saving an entire race of people from being gassed with nerve agents..."

I'm gay? That's news to me... I'm glad you know how to hate people though. Shows how much of a pathetic example of humanity you are. You, my friend, are the reason why so many problems in this world exist. Instead of accepting people as they are, you throw around the "i hate so and so because I don't agree with them, so everyone else needs to hate them too" so you can feel just a little better about yourself once you get the mob behind you to chant the mantra of "hate that guy! Actually, I think you'll find that all those accounts are from seperate IPs.

And maybe you didn't think that Iraqis right now are worse off than they were before. Their economy is crippled, unemployment rates are soaring, they're being shot and blown up daily by American forces (as are Brits...), most of them have had basic amenities (water, electricity) cut off.

And let's not forget:

<http://www.costofwar.com>, and the thousand Americans who have died (looking at it from a purely American point of view).

If the USA wants to really do something to help, they could try diverting some of their billion Dollar defense budget to research into Malaria. Almost as many people die every day from Malaria in the third world than died in the September 11th attacks (Not, obviously, to denigrate the importance of those attacks, they were a terrible atrocity that caused the loss of many innocent lives)..

<http://www.cdc.gov/malaria/facts.htm>

Quote:In areas of Africa with high malaria transmission, an estimated 990,000 people died of malaria in 1995 – over 2700 deaths per day, or 2 deaths per minute.

AircraftkillerSounds more like smurf accounts so someone can be an idiot, it's nothing out of the ordinary.

Quote:ACK just because some idiot from some place says something so bad, doesn't mean you have to go and criticise EVERYONE from that place...

Grow up.

I love that, "grow up because you don't meet my standards of what I believe is maturity, as if your standards of maturity are what I believe in..."

I like generalizing, because I don't see you Europeans as a whole community doing anything but self-preservation and trying to make yourselves look intimidating after losing almost all of your power through the years. I don't see you doing anything about Sudan. Why? You were more than happy to save the Jewish people from Hitler as a byproduct of trying to reclaim your occupied lands...

But you won't support helping others (Iraq, Afganistan, Sudan) that are being murdered and whole sale slaughtered... It just doesn't have any incentive for you, does it? Why you adamantly oppose ever attacking anyone else for any reason at all (Well, except for Italy, Britian and a few other European nations - go you) is because you conveniently happen to have some oil contracts with the local dictator. Just can't come out and say "We don't want you to attack them because they have oil we need," because your governments would look like the sadistic motherfuckers they really are... "Oil is more important to us than saving an entire race of people from being gassed with nerve agents..."

Quote:Aircraftkiller: You sir, are a faggot!

Jesus may love you but i, and many others fucking hate you

Arrogant prick

I'm gay? That's news to me... I'm glad you know how to hate people though. Shows how much of a pathetic example of humanity you are. You, my friend, are the reason why so many problems in this world exist. Instead of accepting people as they are, you throw around the "i hate so and so because I don't agree with them, so everyone else needs to hate them too" so you can feel just a little better about yourself once you get the mob behind you to chant the mantra of "hate that guy! He told us to, so he must be right..."

If anyone is arrogant, it's you. Open your eyes, you tool...

Well ack. I don't think you can help those people in iraq and such country's. The way of living is completely different than here (holland where I live and you in America). The way those people think sounds insane to us. They don't accept our way of living out there. America and other supporting countries go to iraq to help the people out there. That's a good job I think. But the way how they do it is wrong. The way we think is so much different than they do... It's such a big mess out there. I'm sure it will never change. As long as people don't accept each other it will never change.

I don't have HICS, sorry. I just enjoy riling up people like you into tripping over yourselves... You can't see how much of a hypocrite you are for doing exactly what it is that you profess to hate me for?

I'm a nerd? Wow, you know a lot about me. First, I'm gay. Now I'm a nerd. What's next, I'll morph into a purple monkey dishwasher?

I'm actually not a "yank," that generally refers to people above the Mason-Dixon line. I live in the south.

lol, you totally ignore everything else.. Good job, your arrogant nature is becoming more apparent. Casting blame on me for something you hold in yourself is also known as hypocrisy, contradictoriness, and can be summed up by the statement "Do not throw stones in glass houses without proper protection."

Sure, thats a true quote. If you took out all the palestinians and muslims, half the world would be at peace....

BECAUSE YOU WOULD HAVE KILLED HALF THE FUCKING WORLD YOU DIPSHIT! THERE WOULDNT BE MANY PEOPLE TO BE AT WAR WITH!

Jebus is right, you are an arrogant prick. I dont know why you bother to stay here. No one here, including yourself is up to your own 'standards' of maturity which are much higher than anyone can ever imagine. You dont care about renegade, so fuck off and go play with your little fagass 'game', get out of the Renegade forums.

No, thinking about someone dying dosen't make me happy. But I might make an exception for you.

You call Aircraftkiller an attention whore, yet ever since you registered here all you have done is attracted attention to yourself by saying "OMG AIRCAFTKILER HAS IS ARS UP HIS HED OMG OMG YOU DIE NWO NERDY HOMO!!1".

I used to go to #n00bstories on some rare occasions but tbh the people there arent very nice, and i was kicked a few times for nothing at all so i dont really go there any more, unless im bored or something. I always take the piss outta yanks about being this and that, but i dont really believe it. The sad thing is Ack is everything i slag americans about. Hypocrites, ignorant and arrogant.

Dans right, noone likes Ack. All i hear is bitch stories about him and god they are right to bitch, hes a fucking sampfag :rup:

I remember seeing it on tv at school in australia of course. The teacher turned it on and even as kids we watched silently. It took a few days to register the enormity of the situation and even over the years as i got older and have studied various materials related to events such as this, it is still a mind boggling plan of attack...

being in america now, it will be interesting to see how the day is marked here. As in australia the date is acknowledged, but not much more.

im still shocked at the event its hard to truly comprehend the enormity of it really.
