On the game listings go to the side menu on the left

The images on the next screen are fux0red. Here's what you need to know.

Now fill in all the info. Keep the clan admin password to yourself. When you recruit someone into your clan, tell them the join password. Again, the images at the bottom are defunct...

Simple enough, it's Gamespy.

Just another evil association. The software is crappy and honestly if they wanted more people to use their service they should have made it easier for first time users. As the first time someone uses something they will either be happy or it will be their last use.

I know it was last use the first time I used it.

Wol = high level of playing generally, like last night I was in non00bs which is sometimes wol only and when it is I still own, last night it was wolspy and I was like 64-2 or something. All the gsa players were so easy to kill, there was even like 5 people from a clan too.

Public servers on GSA are like multiplayer practice... the majority of players seem to stay as the spawn Nod/GDI soldier, run out onto the field, see an enemy tank, stand perfectly still unloading clip after clip at the tank not doing any damage, then get headshotted...

repeat x20 until map rotates, do the same thing again next map

Not true, I hate EA, and I use Gamespy....although I wouldnt use gamespy if I wasnt in a clan. Anyhow, I usually find it the other way around, all the easy people to kill are from WOL. I can tell they are from WOL cuz they have names like ghds6736. They get a sniper, stand still, I hs them and they are like: omg h4x! geez i feel alone here amonst all the WOL ppls lol.

LOI - that's funny - as a GS player, I was thinking the EXACT same thing as gbull...It's like a whole 'nother world of players I'm not familiar with.

wol public servers isn't any different.
You have 3 kinds of people in there

1. Guys that have absolutly NO idea how to play this game
2. Ladder whoes that think they are better than everyone
3. a few decent players

There are only 5 "active" servers on GaySpy, the rest are WOL servers. Why would you want to put up with the ads???

Oh yeah,
