I used to have this happen on my server, this was like well over a year ago (before the hacks & exploits)

I used to run a 10 player server on a 512/256 connection. Yeah I know, it just can't hack it! But at that time, I didn't really know, which is where I learned my mistakes.

Within 5 mins into the game, 8 people joined (me included) and it was laggy as hell (as you can imagine) then the 9th person joined, which cause my PC/connection to not cope with it, and I also got similar results to the above logs.

So, maybe it could be the connection/PC not coping??

Just a guess...

Andy

No, because it does it after the server is full for a long period of time... Whenever I am in a game and it happens, it always seems to happen at the end of a good close game w/ 5-10 minutes left. This all being with the server is full, etc.

someone on WOL asks for the player list of whos in the game and wot scores like u see before u click start then they ask for it again without waiting for reply, then again, then again, for about 100 times in a second server trying to reply, doesnt check game and it does that thats wot i heard anyhow, called a GO flood

you people are such n00bs when it comes to renegade servers,
your getting ddosed or your getting udp flooded.

THis is not a "cheat" its a server attack

then explain why they can see disconnections happening...
am sure brenbot would also lose connection if it was a ddos... udp flood maybe, GO flood maybe

The renegade server is dosed, it looses all connections to their clients.

brenbot will eventually ping timeout from the IRC server, but at most times, the attack only takes a couple of seconds or a minute, and that is not enough to generate a ping time out response from a IRC server

It's actually probably BoToMaTiC (AKA H4cKBoT). Use something like renip, or use the command-line to connect as "H4cK*" (without the quotes). Then ban that nick. It will stop H4cKBoT/H4cKBoT01/H4cKBoT02/etc/etc from joining, and flooding the room. When he floods the room, users D/C, the server reconnects, and when it's able to rejoin the WOL channel it means he's moved on. (so no probs till the next time).

that H4cKBoT has over 5,000 names, because he crashed the chat room once before by making all 5000 join and leave constantly, it disconnected everyone from the renegade chat room and it wouldnt let me join for a good 5 minutes
