extras fnkqrrm isn't a "cheat," and other than that there are no cheats or other easter eggs in Renegade. Westwood has never put cheat codes into it's games, and they didn't start with Renegade.

lol@StonRook and NameHunter.Also Tiberian Sun didn't have cheats, the only C&C games that did have cheats that I can remember were Tiberian Dawn and Red Alert on the Saturn, PSX and possible the N64, not too sure about the N64 version as I never played it and never seen any cheats for it.The only things in the PC C&Cs that could be considered cheats is the one on Tiberian Dawn for the extra missions. BTW isn't this the Mod Forum, isn't this topic suppose to be on the General Discussion board.

there are some exploits that could be considered cheats. Im not going to get detailed, the fewer that know them the better.and of course in non-laddered, f8 key, type EXTRAS FNKQRRM for the extra characters and vehicles, hold the alt key while accessing characters and vehicles PT HUD icons.and oh yeah, KANE LIVES!

I beat the whole game on normal while only firing 6 Personal Ion Cannon shots, none in the last level. I think it's pretty fun if you have a lot of laser rifle, laser chain gun, and volt auto rifle ammo (fry those mutants!). where are you in the level? I we might be able to give you some pointers (like watch out for the volt turrets in the ruins)

how can you nt beat the last mission. folow the hint. "RUN" that helps a lot. just run for it and what ever is in front of you fire at it. or even run backwards to while killing people. just keep running and don't stop. i learned that after being killed 11 times when i kept stoping to see where to go and a stupid sniper comes. you know what happens next. after that i just figured out where to go and had no problem

I believe there is an Easter Egg on the Evolution Of Evil level. Wander around the desert. Eventually u might come across a place which looks from the outside like the ruins from Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade. Grab the goodies inside but look out for Stealth Soldiers and a Stealth Tank when u get out.
