When people use radio commands you see the emoticons over their head (or their vehicle). If you arent near anyone using them, use 3rd person view and do some radio commands. Also naturally, the enemy cannot see you or your teams emoticons and vice versa.

Oh, those. I thought they meant like smileys or something. Cool, thanks.

I like how CP1 made them possible in multiplayer. Although I'm sure we can all read it's just nice to have something working that should have been working all the time.

Good job again guys
