This is the Rebel Assault Trooper, the latest addition to our mod's infantry. This unit of the Rebel ground forces made possible the escape from Hoth by the rebel garrison posted there, as troopers such as this one valiantly defended the icy outpost for long enough for the bulk transports to escape. Model and texture were both by Puck Ducker. Expect to see in-game images in the near future, as well as other wonderful creations by Puck Ducker.

Looks great. But the crotch area and upper legs need some work. Just don't look right.

Nice

I think that the pants look sorta deranged though.

Is it just me, or does anyone else feel that talking about a guy's crotch a little homoerotic, especially a guy that is just a 3D texture map?

What j_ball430 said and the belt looks like I could use a bit more detail on it.

The weapons holster (or whatever that long thing is on his side) looks odd, I think that it's a bit too straight.

If your homophobic I guess you could look at it like that j_ball and tagalong. The guy is completely FLAT in that area with no creases in his pants or anything. Like I said, just doesn't look right.

If anyone's so worried about homoeroticism then why don't we have a lady comment shall we? Let's not let it get out of hand.

I agree, his pants look weird. They need some creases or to outline his lowerbody. His arms look great, though.

I'm just saying that talking about a guy's crotch is a little homoerotic...especially one of a 3D game character. You're reading WAY into my post.

Well done model for starters, the texture really brings him together.

There is just enough detail to make him interesting.

Thumbs Up!
