I'm arranging an oldbie sniper get together. So people that know me, or were in a sniper guild known by many can join up. Mainy looking for the oldbies that may be around - this is a one off thing just for christmas. I've been asked to do it so I said yes, so who's up for it?

If so tell me your details in a PM please.

The opposite of a "newbie". Anybody who's been playing for a while. I'm guessing he means at least 1 year or so.

ADM was a phase one beta tester, he's one of the few left like myself and Crimson who have been here for three years. We helped build this tiny little community.

I might go for it ADM, but I need more details...

Basically it's just a mess about for the oldbies of the community to show their faces and just talk about stuff and have some fun. I've got so many good memories from the olden days of Renegade, just can't let Renegade go, lol. I'll have to sort out hosts etc, but I'll need a rough idea of who's coming.

Sniping skills aren't required really, I haven't touched this game in a year.

To educate the uneducated. The Greek (pretty sure it's Greek) word for Christ starts with the letter X, therefore X is an abrivation for Christ, hence Xmas = Christmas. It is not meant to eliminate the word Christ, merely shorten it. Xtian is also an abrivation for Christian. It is not a secular version of the word, merely a shorter one.

To be honest, I didn't play the beta that much, but I did play it. If I was at my parent's house where the old cd is, if it hasn't been thrown away, I would send you a pic. But I really don't care. My point in posting was to point out that you aren't part of some elite few who have played Renegade since it came out. And besides that, all you do now is bitch about how much it's a shitty game.

i dont see in anyway how being in the beta would make you "elite". so you were in the beta big deal... doesnt mean you are actually elite at the game... and so to be an oldbie you had to play the game in beta? seems like a stupid thing to me... an oldbie could just be someone who had gotten the game as soon as it was available to the public... but thats just my opinoin...

and ADM ill try to make it if you get a time and date put out... and ill see if i can get ahold of cpt if you want him to play?

Please get hold of Cpt. I don't really mind how the games go, I suppose we could have a special beta tester reunion or something along those lines. Aswell as an oldbie sniper reunion.

I consider a oldbie sniper someone with a well known name and reputation aswell as experience behind them. They don't have to be a beta tester to be an oldbie sniper - as sniping didn't really take off during beta.

And for dates, well I was hoping for between 22nd December and 28th December or something like that.

We could have quite a few organised games, and I also need some offers for a host. 16+ player hosting will be need I think.

Chubakah, Morge0214(me) and Cjscotch. Those were 3 clanmembers that I used to play Tiberian Sun that got to play the Demo and Chubakah got to play the private Beta testing. I got to play a few games with him on his beta account and I really don't see why you people are proud...Is it because You haven't been into many betas? For me It was just a laggy and full of glitches game at that time, the Demo was a little bit better, but still when the game went live that's when It became the most fun.

Sure the beta players have played the longest, and were by far better when the game came out. I probably haven't played enough with some of them but just because someone is a beta player doesn't make them elite. Also I'd consider anyone who got the game (beta or soon after release) and oldbie.

Same thing I said before...but like I said...my guess is that, They feel so proud because they haven't participated in many betas. I do remember all of the "oldbies" that have replied this message so far, but I haven't really seen a lot of really Skilled people...just people that started playing the game at the same time as me, but Quit playing it in less than 1/2 year. While the only person here that has been as active on this game at least for 2 years just like me is Homey. Again I'm not trying to insult anyone, but that's the way I remember that happened.

I think I may have been more loyal to Renegade if I didn't get my laptop taken away from me. Once that happened, I didn't have anything to play Ren on, so it was quickly forgotten, and then I tried playing it again when I had the capability to, and everything was different. I sucked more, and there were more and more idiots.

My definition of an oldbie is someone with extensive experience, so those people who were in demo or people who had the game since it was released would be in my opinion an oldbie. Although I also want a beta tester only match.

Also, I've beta tested about 30+ games, and believe me they don't come remotely near to the beta experience with Renegade. Those who didn't participate in the Renegade beta test won't know what us beta testers went through. That's why most of the beta testers in Renegade go on about it so much - it was unique.

I'll quite happily organise more matchs so others can play, don't worry I won't limit the fun. So you 'middlebies' and whoever else wants to play should get to.
