This was discussed before in another thread (before you came here, so I'm not going to lecture you about using the search button), and the general consensus was that it was complete and utter bullshit.

I saw that a long while ago, it's a very well done flash for almost nothing but images. Who cares if it's credible, I always like conspiracy.

Easily debunked...

1) Where are those people who died if they didn't die. One of the passengers was the wife of a politician (can't remember who)... I think we'd know if she didn't really die.

2) Blazer had a 16th-ish story condo in Arlington, VA and actually saw the plane pass his window on the way to the Pentagon... so close that he could have seen their faces. (except that it was going quite fast)
