Does this mean I can beat the crap outta my six year old son?

"The day after Christmas, the Feast of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, is better known as Boxing Day. The term may come from the opening of church poor boxes that day; maybe from the earthenware boxes with which boy apprentices collected money at the doors of their masters' clients.

Nowadays, we often see, in certain families, gifts (boxes) given to those who provide services throughout the year.

"Boxing Day" is listed in the Canada Labour Code as a holiday." Canadian Heritage Website

Boxing day is a Canadian thing, n00bie. Others MIGHT know it as St. Steven's day, but even then it's a long shot.

Basically on Boxing is for the people who got crapy gifts for christmas. So people go out to the stores to get what they actually wanted on sale. Simple enough?

Boxing day is when all the stores have their sales, and people que up outside the big stores, and get like %50 off selected items, a few years back my uncle got a plasma screen for $5000, when they were still in the $20,000 price range.

But it is known in quite a few parts of the world.
