no really it did lol

Click on the image if it gets resized..

when i went to n00bstoires the site was down..

juuuuust wonderin.. since i heard thier was a phpbb worm/virus or w/e and NS uses that board style here is what the style of attack is.. funny how the Firewall tells me low risk and the site tells me high risk

Whoosh! And the crowd goes wild as "point" goes flying over two people's heads!

No really, it sounds like n00bstories was ddosed and you happened to be on it at the time.. note you are downloading an image from the site.

If the site was being DDosed, then how can loading a shit DDos you? It's impossible, unless theres a way to bounce the DDos off the site, then onto the current visitors.

look firefox is and has been on my comp since it came out.. back when mozilla was a lizard.. not a fox.. ô_o but i dont let him out to play he so cute.. lil firefox..

for real tho.. would it really have matterd what browser i was using?
the so called attack CAME from n00bstories.. not outa my browser i really dont care either way.. i never get attacks like that (even using IE) i just thought it was funny/wierd it came from n00bstories

You got that message just as your browser was trying to load an image from the image uploader.
When was that screenie taken? n00bstories hasn't been attacked in several days.

I assure you my Linux box isn't trying to do a MSSQL exploit on you. :rolleyes:

If it's Norton acting up...then you wouldn't be letting anything in, now would you? Also, get a different program and see if you have the same problem. I doubt you will.

hahah

i mean wtf..

i start streaming my video training.. as i'm watching i say "let's browse Ren-forums" so i get here.. i get attacked.. then my internet slows down to nothing!

hosting the pix took forever i was gonna go and download another Firewall just to see if i could get the same results.. but i couldnt.. i had a transfer rate of friggin 2.4k!

so i got pissed and just left lol

i had a total of 305 attacks when i got back so thats why its always so damn HOT in FLa.. gawd.. Funkin N00bstories..

i found this on a diff forum

Symantec has admitted that a serious vulnerability exists in the way its scanning engine handles Ultimate Packer for Executables.

According to a ZDNet article, this means the scanner would execute the malicious program instead of catching it.

Tim Hartman, senior technical director for Symantec Asia Pacific, said: "A vulnerability is not a vulnerability till somebody discovers it but because this is now known, somebody could craft an e-mail, mass mailer or a virus that takes advantage of it. It affects our firewalls, antispam, all the retail products and the enterprise products as well"

Symantec recommends you immediately patch your software.

Norton's not completely horrible, but it isn't all that great by itself. If you want something free and decent, I'd suggest using AVG, or if you want a really good one and willing to pay, Kaspersky is good.
