What's really sad is that the dude is wasting his talent on this game when few people are going to download or play it.

Yeah but you can't say he is learning more and more while he is doing it. I know i'm sticking with W3D for a little while longer.

(Mainly until I get a New graphics card and Half life 2 , Hehe.)

It's a patented "move replies into this forum from another thread" pattern. Andy, you're an idiot. I don't need to say more about you.

But that has nothing to do with it. Almost no one will play it, let alone download it. He's wasting his time when he could be learning something like Hammer, however much it sucks, to reach a huge audience.
