Wireless networks have nothing to do with the ISP. My connection comes from Comcast, through miles of cables, into my house, then in a gay ass wireless router that sends to my computer. I need to hardwire, but this house is two story and it would be really hard.

Dude, that is 3 megabit. I'm on an uncapped Charter cable who's max rated is 3megabit, i top out at around that depending on the server. And that is a whole hell of a lot faster than this damn 56k modem at my folks. So don't whine.

I played the demo a while ago... The graphics are really good, although it runs very very slow (20 - 15 fps). It's hard to tell if it's good or not, since the gameplay is weird.

And Cow, you're wrong, play the demo first... The gameplay is WAY different than Generals.

i didn't like that your airplanes are outside the map so more like a superweapon that you tell them where to attack and i also hated the limit on the ppl you can select at one time.

Also on the demo map you don't really build the base... =/

They're not, they're GForce4MX. Because it's the economy version of the GForce4, less performance for less money.
