One more website related topic, because right now I can't say that my website is as fun to make as it once was...

Okay, does anyone know a domain registrar that won't show my address on a who-is look-up for free?

Glyde, if you're willing to spend $10 on a layout, why not pay $7/yr for a domain?

It's not that, it's the fact that on a who-is look-up, people can see my address, and I'm not really fond of having angry people with guns being able to look-up my address...

I'm not sure, but I don't think you have to put in all your information. If you do, then make up an address and phone number. All the companies want is a valid credit card. They don't care about the validity of an address/number.

Those cost money... I think....

And Godaddy unlisted domains cost more money...

The whole reason I host it off my comp is because I'm cheap

Does anyone know anything about registering with Yahoo? Is it okay?

You know... I could be wrong, but most businesses are in business to do business.. you know, that act which makes money.

If you want a service.. and even "more" of a service than the typical service providers provide, why are you afraid to pay for it?

I pay $30 a year for every domain I own.. godaddy's only charging like $15, and that's WITH the aliased info option.

I can understand if you simply don't have money.. I'm just saying that "shit costs money".. and you have to work around that little inconvenience sometimes.

Just put false info for the most part. I doubt it will be a problem unless some issue comes up. But I've never had a domain, so that isn't written in stone.

Heres a tip: (AVOID IF YOU HAVE NICE NEIGHBOURS )

When you sign up for your domain first go in the reverse directory of your phone book and find your neighbours phone number. Then use YOUR full name but your neighbours address and phone numbers etc.

If they send spam or gangstas there problem. If theres a serious problem your neighbours see your name on the mail and give it to you

If you need a domain name I can get you one also but I doubt that would be a problem.

Update all links to Trielite.net

Used my dad's credit card (he let me use it), spent thirty dollars (USD) on my domain for two years and that hide my address thing... that's a lot for us Canadians. If I was smart I should have tried to check if Trielite.com was locked.

Some of them are just the .net and .orgs for my other domains. Some of them are domains I didn't want other people to register. Some are concepts I considered exploring.
