I just went to register for the draft :/

Heh, that's about the only new thing about turning 18 besides, well, you're now fully responsible for your own actions, you can go to strip clubs without bars (eh?) and you can smoke. And now my place of employment can force me to work past 10pm on a school night.

Exciting lol

Those who want to destroy their lungs won't wait til' they turn 18, nor those who want to destroy their liver (alcohol).

EDIT: Does anyone know someone anti-smoking and anti-alcohol sites? I want to get our local high school to add some links of those to their school page.

I'm really not to pro-smoking as I don't think many are but. I dunno I don't think a tad of a drink every once in a while are so bad. People always take it to excess but if you can trust yourself to have self-control you'll be fine around alcohol.

I've never smoked never will. I had asthma problems when I was 12 and that scared the shit out of me. Obviously I wasn't smoking back then, but if I had been, and my asthma problems kicked in, I would have been much much worse.

I've drunk vodka, beer, rum all the regular stuff before. I'm sure most of you have. But I'll never let it develop into a habit of mine.

Thats very true. You can't buy them from the shop if you are underage, but its easy as hell to get your hands on cigarettes. If you wanted to smoke you could have easily done it.

Haha,

I'll be 16 on Feb 15. I think there's a few other guys that have birthdays thereabouts too.

I've drank, but never smoked, been straightedge since probably around 2 years ago. I'll never smoke, but I'll probably drink a bit after college and all that nonsense. That is, unless boisterousness does me in.

If this ends up gettin kicked into Politics Forum anyhow, I'd like to know some of the reasons why those of you smoke/drink, and those of you don't smoke or drink.

Oh and happy birthday!

Alcohol isn't near as bad, as you just said, but you never know if I could become one of those people who take it to excess. Just to make the best of myself, it's my choice to not touch anything such as drugs/smoking/alcohol.

sigh...

n0n sm0kers

n0n drinkers

Wussies!

u guys must be a real bore at a party lmao

j/k

being as I started sm0kin when i was like 12-13

altho i had drank b4.. i didnt start to "normaly" drink till i turned 21..

anti-smokin site might be phillip moris.com - they make marlboro's but their site is purpley made for anti sm0king they also fund those "Truth" adds u see on tv.. try Truth.com or sumthing sm0kin and drinkin comes through boredom in my opion..

i hate drunk drivers
being as i got hit by a drunk driver when i was 16..
if i wasnt knocked out.. i woulda killed him trust me i got his name and where he lives ALL in the police report.. i plan on finding him 1 of these days.. he lives in NC was his 3rd of 4th DUI.. he did jail time.. dunno how long but since im older now im kinda the only one im my click that doesnt want to sm0ke or drink anymore.. getting un-healthy

and it just gets in the way..

and happy birthday Spree.. always be glad u survived another year on earth

lol

Drinking is something most do, its fine as long as its not in gross amounts. I've drank before, i just don't like the taste all that much so i'll never be a alcoholic.

Smoking Cigs is terribly bad for you, i'll never do that. I hate going to work because all my manangers do is sit in the office and smoke and i hate smelling it, i hate tasting it, i hate breathing it.

Believe it or not, but inhaling the smoke from others who smoke cigarettes is possibly even worse for you than doing it yourself. It's called secondhand smoking, and I suggest avoiding the smell if possible. I'm guessing it can be worse for you than actually smoking cigarettes, mostly because cigarettes have filters and inhaling it from other people is like smoking without the filter.

so more air gets in between the smoke and the filter..

but guess where the holes are.. right where u fingers go hahah

How can it be worse for people that are just breathing in the second hand smoke, when the person that's actually smoking is getting both? He's getting it through the filter, and he has to breathe at some point, he'll breathe the "second hand smoke" in too.

(Oh yeah, I turn 19 next month, March 20th.)
