LANmaniac is a bi-weekly LAN party based in the southern California area, bordering Los Angeles and Orange county.

Our events go on for a duration of 24hrs starting Saturday at around 11am and going on through Sunday.

The games that occupy the most of our time are COD:UO, Battlefield 1942, UT2K4, Far Cry, Soldier of Fortune II, Quake2/3, Tribes Vengeance, Need for Speed Underground 2, Wolfenstein Enemy Territory and others! We don't limit ourselves to solely just one game, we are open to all suggestions including past and future titles.

But this past weekend I was able to get the guys into some Renegades because I found out that two of our current members are renegades players. And since renegades is some what similar to Battlefield 1942, I thought that I would give it a try. So my guess is that we will keep on pushing renegades for a little while and see where it goes. But the best way to secure renegades success in our LAN parties is if we could get some more hard core players into our group! YOU!!!

Here are a few pictures that have been taken at some of our most recent events. The pictures give an approximate idea of what the atmosphere of our events are like. But without being here you will have no idea what you are missing.

I was unable to snag a few screens of us playing renegades at our last LAN since I was too deeply into the game. But I was able to take one picture of one of our guys installing it <http://www.lanmaniac.com/gallery/displayimage.php?album=47&pos=102>

Our next event is this weekend and it would be great to welcome in some new gamers into the group.

KEEP RENEGADES ALIVE!!!!!!

Is it me or is the guy in your second pic...well lets say "Odd"

Anyway thats great, i wish they had those things here, i always buy my equipment for stuff like that (Cases with neons, plexiglass sides, and colorful boards) but i never have gone to one. One thing though, who pays the bill? geeze.

We rent the space out of an warehouse. They charge us a flat fee of $10 per head, so that is what covers their end as far as the electric bill and all.

/me takes out binoculars.

Someone replace it with the suitable-for-kids version:

LOL the wooden case belongs to [XPC] VSCG13. He is one of the three Renegade players. And that Gamespy shirt is mine I got it after I started attending some of the private gamespy LANs that are no more My chair is now replaced by one of the 8 or so Tribes Vengeance shirts that we got for swag.

Now as far as what is displayed on the one users screen, all I have to say is YES, shares are open and abused on our gigabit connection

If anyone wants to game with us. This weekend looks good. Because so far its a low turn out, so basically this is the best time to try any stupid games" renegades".
