I don't often have much of a reason to make new topics here but I felt I wanted to make one of this:

Exdeath7When I went on my break at work tonight I went over to this CD shop (CD Connection) and bought Breaking Benjamins - We are not alone to listen to. I have to say.... It's the best $14.99 I have ever spent. I saw someone on another forum say they would have payed $100 for the CD. I would too.

I was listening to it all night at work and I'm listening to it right now.

I found the website , You can listen to a few songs on it:

fuck buying CDs they are a waste of my fucking money. Once napster starts offering their services to the general public and not just for their players I will get that.

I bought Breaking Benjamin too. Great buy I think. worth every penny. I only download songs that I cant find In stores and stuff.

Havent had a good buy like that since Metallica Black.

I get great buys all the time. Most of the CDs I own cost me $10 and they're all great. Then again, they're not exactly mainstream and "popular" anymore.

Get Sirius, Listen to Octane, channel 20.. you'll get all the alternative rock your heart desires... Linkin Park, Crossfade, Godsmack, Metallica, Nickelback, Alice In Chains, Nirvana, Tool, Breaking Benjamin, etc, etc.. I stream it at home, listen to it in the car, at work.. etc, etc..

If you have Dish, their Digital music is fed by sirius also, you can listen to Octane on there also.

I buy most of my music too , I never really download anything except few single songs. I wouldn't even use Napster really , I don't care if it's a better deal , I like to own the CD and add it to my collection.
