Did you notice that every time somebody posts a topic on something like Renegade serial numbers, or Fan made scripts, that the topic gets moved to the silo or somewhere else? What are they trying to do? Ban the talk about fans making scripts and serials, i mean come on.

Yes, as we all know that talking about giving away serial keys will inspire bhs to create a script where ai drives vehicles. :rolleyes:

What the fuck? Blackhand Studios has access to the Silo threads anyway... what's your point? We support legitimate ownership and playing of C&C: Renegade and any threads that don't follow that purpose are removed.

I never seen them move usefull threads about scripts for Renegade to the silo. If your talking about the thread from oblivion about base defending units who follow a waypath. It isn't moved to the silo, it's moved simply to the mod forum. That's the right place for it.

Yeah it is supposed to be in the mod forum. But originally i had asked a C++ question for the script i was writing for the bots. But then i thought people would just say "Oh why dont you just use this script?" so i changed it.

Your an idiot for asking for serials in the first place. Fuck you if you can't pay the 4 dollars for a great game like ren.
