I posted a bunch of pictures that should have discribed exactly how to do it in one of your other posts about blending. You should go look at it, it teaches you everything from square one.

Im not sure what your exact question is though so maybe speak up a bit lol.

Yeah I already looked at that one but I that is using VertextPaint. There's a MUCH neater way by clicking an actual vertex you want to blend with another vertex. The polygon in between is blended, not the vertex's :S

Anyone know what I'm talking about?
