This is the "GENERAL DISCUSSION FORUM" it would only be spamming if it were in one like support or mods or ... you get the picture.

You realize that you've been posting too much and spamming, so you double post with "look at my big muscles"?

He isn't pulling a "spam monkey"... Monkeys are supposed to be cute.

JKJK

While I agree with J_ball, I have to say that "Look at my big muscles." is HILARIOUS. The fact that that sentence is 100% coherent makes it much funnier. (As opposed to his other posts)

Very original...

he knows how to upload images for his site, so that link to his local computer is probably an upload error from the option to upload from computer.

The best avatars are the ones that people make the self's. I always thought they were supposed to be representation of the person posting, and so should be original. What's the point in posting something you copied?

I made both of mine (the bloke in the av is not my work but the rain and the background are), although i'm going to change my sig, load it in to flashmx and come up with a couple of animation's to do with ren.

On another note... Why the fuck was this thread started in the first place!

God damd it!

I have been here all this time and I still have below 200 hundred posts! What the fuck is wrong with me?

I know what!

I should be like deadfive! I must now come in here every day (I do come here everyday to read but we are just going to have to ignore that for now,) and post at least two topics perday every day about shit websites and things that I have seen trolling other forums that I don't even post on! That way everybody will like me!

I have to make up the 9000 or so posts I should have made, because the more posts I make, the bigger part of this community I am![/RANT]

This is what happens when I wakeup too early.
