Well im getting it to look pretty nice now, but i still need someone with mad paint shop skills.

I did however put together our flag.

Edit

The downloads are messed up because the bot mods i have are all messed up, and the place i got them from is messed up too. But im adding the nocd.exe today and maybe something else.

Looking good now but the most important thing is missing (apart from messed up links);

Add something to the main page, immediately or quickly visible, about what the site is actually about and what's on it. example. n00bstories.com quickly explains its purpose, and in any case, if you go there you are most likely a gamer who knows what a noob is anyways.

This is a simple non-hulking thing.

<http://apocmedia.com/>
The URL quickly explains what it is.

This banner explains the site, as does the URL, n00bstories.com

You don't need HULKING banners that annoy people, all you need is a little something that explains what the purpose is.

This made me go, "wtf?!"

Also, remove the links that are like "N/A" and if you want, use a WYSIWYG editor, like Nvu. I used it until I used Photoshop and Nvu screwed up my template, so, yeah... Though when I used the template you have I had no trouble whatsoever with Nvu.

Take away the flames, replace with black design a new top logo to the specific size, and again for the one above the links. Should be ok after that.

Ok... First it needs to be framed better. the text in the middle just looks cramped. i would go with some sort of rusted metal motif with flecked red pain. This is because I like Nod. i suppose you could go with a yellow one. Templates arent all that hard to come by.

This is if you have photoshop and can use it.
If you need tutorials go here.

<http://www.pixel2life.com/>

If you are just starting out with photoshop go here.
Janee has everything you need. Do the tutorials in the order she recommends at the bottom.

<http://myjanee.home.insightbb.com/tutorials.htm>

Then you need a banner. One that isn't pixlated. These are not hard to make. It just takes a little imagination.

For a banner try Red scorpion on one side. Black back ground, Picture of kane on the other. Use a soft eraser or mask to mix them together, then have renegade or command and conquer printed in the middle with a nice text effect. make a simple boarder.
Then a simple black back ground for the rest with do ya fine.

A simple presentation is what you need. For the time being anyway.

|-----|
|-----|
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
-----

This might not help you, but I figure i might as well try and help. Feel free to flame if this isnt a very good idea or i'm just plane wrong.

Change the text font, remove the N/A links, make a smaller, better banner that's the same size as the one that came with the template, use one topic to discuss this site, and do other stuff that anyone else suggests.

Rarely do I ever see a website with a banner that is 193 pixels in height.

A banner will start to look like ass after it getting about 150 pixels in height imo.

Height: 100 px width: 500 px

Height: 150 px width: 500 px

(Don't ask I know these are simple and boring as well)

See the difference in which one looks better?

Definitely lose the n/a links, before you do anything else. The banner could do with shortening by about 30%. Apart from that it looks better than anything I've done.

You'll learn in time how to create a nice layout and such. I've been creating websites, toying with HTML since I was about 10. Even after that many years I still suck ass at anything graphical... lol. What I'm trying to get at is that give it time, keep working on it. You'll learn how to improve it.

Your site right now: The layout is definitely improving. If possible find a different host for your images that isn't going to keep yelling at you about remote linking because half the time I just see a huge banner that says: "No Hotlinking" or something of that nature.

If you haven't tried some web editors already I would suggest Macromedia Dreamweaver MX 2004. I know many will say that it sucks, give it a try. You can get a 30 day trial, and you can probably find a way to "extend" it. I did however, buy an actual copy.

Don't let people get you discouraged, just keep working on it. If you enjoy doing it, that's the most important thing.

Ok when designing a template for your site or choosing one you should always consider the minimal of what you need and then build your way up. Lets take for example apocmedia.com and animerush.org.

Apocmedia is a designing group so I had to design to our specifications. The site had to look "Cool." So I came up with a basic layout with black boxes then built onto that. The banner is very complex and I do not recommend you try anything like that as a beginner.

AnimeRush is very minimalistic. It conveys news and downloads and that is all I need it for. No extravagant design or anything like that. I suggest you try something like that for your first template.

This is my entire attempt at not calling you a fucking retard and dumping your n00bie ass out on the ground.

deadfive's Signaturefile:///C:/My%20Documents/My%20Pictures/RenGenLOGOMAIN2.jpg

You lack website knowledge. No one will see that except for you. You don't link images that are on your own computer, you upload them to a site and get the link from there.

I don't see the point in doing it if NOBODY will ever see it except you... it just makes you look unprofessional with a broken image in your signature that links to your own files.

Upload it to here: <http://www.imageshack.us>

He's doing it with html, and he needs to add border="0" in order to get rid of it. It wouldn't be a problem if he used [img]

1. I did not bash it.
 2. I need a girlfriend just because I "bashed" your logo? Try not to push real life into this topic.

Girlfriends aside, it's not that shitty. At least he had the sense to try something new, and he didn't try and say that he made it him self. I think it's a perfectly admiral attempt. I mean come one, the whole bloody internet is infested with shit websites, the people who made them those don't even try to make them better. At least he tries, That has to be worth something.

That's not all that bad... It's a template, but if your just staring off its probably the best place to start.

As soon as you can try and change it to something original.

I got the login script to work fine, the reason i am using one is because members get access to mods, skins and ect that we make and are not available to the public. Members are in the clan and i have set it all up to work fine. I am using HTML Builder to make my websites which is pretty much exactly like dreamweaver. I have both but dreamweaver is messed up.

deadfive- Your site is lookin' really good regardless of how you got to this point. Good job. However, one thing has GOT TO GO...or be redone! It's sticks out like a big hairy mole on your page...You ever seen that movie Powers Gold Member where Austin is fixated on Dr Mole's giant mole? I'm sorry deadfive, but that's what that RenGen logo is like man! "Moley, moley...moleh..." (a giff of that scene where he's pokin the mole with a stick would be perfect right now, but my wife returned the rental yesterday!)
