So Im playing Ren today and all of the sudden, my message box starts getting flooded with Your Invitation has Been Declined! After about 2 mins or So i was able to exit the game, however; not quick enough because the server lost connection with WOL just as I exited so my comp froze up. So I rebooted and reenter ren only to find that this jackass decided to continue harrassing me with his incessive spamming! Thinking to myself, maybe he hacked my account or something, I switched over to another account! I was fine for about 15 mins or so when he started to spam me again but with the message, You think changing your nick name will help, Im finding you with your IP Address! I replied wtf do you want with me, the spamming contnued and switched over to the invitation declined bullshit once again. At this point Im pretty fuckin pissed because of the low life scum who find joy in such things. Assholes like these are the shit ththat you would find on the bottem of your shoe and would scrape off with a penny. Anyways, was wondering if anyone knew how I could get around this assholes little tracks and thus protect myself from future attacks! I have signed off of WOI for the time being so nothing more can happen!
Cheers!

If you have a dynamic IP, turn off your DSL/Cable modem and wait a little bit. Your IP will probably change and you can shake him that way. If you have a static IP, call your ISP and ask them to change it because someone is spamming you via IP.

This should shake him off your tail. If I were you, I'd message him back saying "Please stop spamming me!," AFTER I changed my IP adress, just to waste his time while I play a nice game of Renegade.

Think about how he could have gotten your IP adress though. Were you in a Teamspeak server or IRC server? Could this person have been an admin on that server and found out your IP?

Nightma12use the WOL Ignore feature

Well I give it to Nightma12 for using the KISS method and not some more complicated stuff.

:thumbsup:
