This may have already been brought up, but there's a visual glitch on City Flying. When you're in the Obelisk (or close to it) the Airstrip door looks open when it's not.

This is actually a gameplay issue (if not a particular major one) since every time I see the strip door open I think "crap, did a hotwire get in?"

That and the fact that if you go to the front right corner (interior) of the war factory the whole structure goes away were not mentioned as being included in the list of map fixes.
