

---

Subject: Need help with cloning.
Posted by Anonymous on Sat, 26 Oct 2002 23:03:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

What's the difference between copy, instance, and reference?

---

---

Subject: Need help with cloning.
Posted by Anonymous on Sat, 26 Oct 2002 23:28:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

well Copy is an actual copy of the object, Instance and reference are allmost the same, if you make a reference of an object its a mirror of the object and anything you edit on the original will change on the reference too.Hope it helps

---

---

Subject: Need help with cloning.
Posted by Anonymous on Sat, 26 Oct 2002 23:46:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Well first you take the DNA.....

---

---

Subject: Need help with cloning.
Posted by Anonymous on Sun, 27 Oct 2002 12:45:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Well, here's to make it quick and easy to understand:clone objectA -> objectB as instance:- changes made on A affects B- changes made on B affects Aclone objectA -> objectB as reference:- changes made on A affects B- changes made on B does not affect Aclone objectA -> objectB as copy:- changes made on A does not affect B- changes made on B does not affect AYou can have as many references or instances as you want for an object.- Abjab

---