(Remember to keep things civil and based on your own experiences.)

This topic is for the purpose of listing the signs that you just might be a noob.

1. If your base is under attack by an arty and you run off to attack the enemy base leaving one person to simultaneously defend and repair the base, you just might be a noob.
 2. If you think your refinery getting destroyed is a good thing, you just might be a noob.
 3. If you think its noobish to mine, you just might be a noob.
 4. If you think after five failed attempt at a solo transport helicopter rush that the next one might work, you might be a noob.
 5. If you think shooting at the same spot in an open field with an arty for over 30 minutes non-stop will do anything, you might be a noob.
 6. If you go up behind a sniper that is taking aim at another sniper and open fire at the target, you might be a noob.
 7. If you think aircraft will do any good on a map full of snipers, you might be a noob.
 8. If you try to take out a mammoth as a regular Nod soldier, you might be a noob.
 9. If you complain about how wimpy an apache is after getting owned by an experienced pilot, you might be a noob.
 10. If you are GDI and try to repair your vehicle in the field and it gets stolen, you might be a noob.

13. if you take an enemy vehicle that's been left in your base by another player, you might be a noob.

14. if you rush the same building with a hotwire the whole game, and continually fail because they know you're coming, you just may be a noob.

15. you take a shotgunner into an open field and try to attack someone a mile away...you're a noob.

16. you think the pistol is the best weapon in the game, and you stand a good chance of destroying a fully healthed building guarded by 5 techs with one.

Um, if he is an "engy right near the turret" doesn't that mean he doesn't need to give up his Rave? Btw, I wouldn't give up my Rave to save a turret. Why? If the need to save the turret is that great, GDI is probably pounding away at your base, which means you probably have little to no money. A Raveshaw does a better job of staving away tanks than the one turret. Giving up the Raveshaw not only loses you a better character to help protect the base, but repairing the turret gives them more points anyways, it's just another target. Raveshaw is a better pick.

The turrets are useless unless your obelisk is gone, they do negligible damage, their accuracy is pitiful, their firing rate is pitiful.

Their only use is a warning system once you lose your obelisk, to draw attention to enemies in your base.

But at least they're balanced, unlike that quick fire stuff people put on their server to make the turret better. Or the guard towers which totally rape all infantry. GDI is better with jst an AGT and Nod should have the obelisk and 2 normal turrets

The only reason they're balanced is they suck.

The Obelisk and the Advanced Guard Tower are more or less balanced, so two feeble turrets don't upset that balance.

Turrets occasionally get a lucky headshot on an infantry; other than that they do so little damage, and don't even wait to turn before firing so often their opening shot is completely wasted.

5. If you think shooting at the same spot in an open field with an arty for over 30 minutes non-stop will do anything, you might be a noob.

There was some misunderstanding about this so I will explain the event behind this example.

I was up on a cliff taking aim with a Deadeye at an experienced Sakura who had been picking off my team mates (even when they were running) and all of a sudden a GDI soldier came in behind me, opened fire, and instantly made the Sakura aware of my position forcing me to take cover and missing my opportunity for another head shot.

Just to let noobs know... At long ranges in any game and in real life, the best anti-snipers are other snipers, not basic infantry firing at a target almost outside their weapons maximum range.

What number are we on? Seventy? Well. . . You might be a n00b if. . .

- 70) . . .you think putting the maximum(on most maps) of 30 mines in your Obelisk/Advanced Guard Tower is the way to go.
 - 71) . . .you think that the Mammoth Tank can take anything more than two Tanks on its own without falling back.
 - 72) . . .you think the Mammoth Tank is the best Vehicle unit for all purposes in the game.
 - 73) . . .you think the Mammoth Tank has a range greater than that of any other Tank unit when using Slugs or Missiles.
 - 74) . . .you think the Mobile Rocket Launcher System is a weak vehicle because of its speed and light armor.
 - 75) . . .you open fire with any bullet-using or laser-using unit(excluding Raveshaw and Sydney 2), thinking that you can shoot clear across the map even if your reticle is grey.
 - 76) . . .you don't reload between fights.
 - 77) . . .you forget to use the Purchase Terminals between fights if not planting C4s or base raiding.
 - 78) . . .you completely forego the Purchase Terminals in any All-Out-War game.
 - 79) . . .you think the Rocket Soldiers and Gunner work well for destroying Infantry.
 - 80) . . .you think Tiberium Mutant units are entirely useless, particularly against a team of Sydneys and Patches.(Boy, did that match ever suck.)
 - 81) . . .you don't think the Nod Chameleon is a DAMNED good one-man bombing run vehicle.
 - 82) . . .you can't appreciate the GDI Sedan's speed, if only for running around the map.
 - 83) . . .you call Snipers "cheater" when they regularly spawn-kill you and you can't find them.(This does not apply to Crazy CTF servers where units can and do fly when they get the Flight power-up.)
 - 84) . . .you use Big Bomb, Big Head, Final Renegade, or any combination of these or any other Renegade cheat.
 - 85) . . .you don't use RenGuard. :3

5. If you think shooting at the same spot in an open field with an arty for over 30 minutes non-stop will do anything, you might be a noob.

There was some misunderstanding about this so I will explain the event behind this example.

I was up on a cliff taking aim with a Deadeye at an experienced Sakura who had been picking off my team mates (even when they were running) and all of a sudden a GDI soldier came in behind me, opened fire, and instantly made the Sakura aware of my position forcing me to take cover and missing my opportunity for another head shot.

Just to let noobs know... At long ranges in any game and in real life, the best anti-snipers are other snipers, not basic infantry firing at a target almost outside their weapons maximum range. No, but coming the other way when the Sniper is being attacked, its pretty damn good.

I was playing on Jelly-Games AOW in Siege once, as Nod. I had bought a SBH+Nuke and was trying to Harvy-walk into GDI's base, when, lo and behold, a pack of rushing teammates took out the AGT! Peeling off from behind GDI's Harvester, I noticed a seemingly abandoned GDI Medium Tank just sitting in GDI's base. I grabbed it and managed to get credit for killing 2 buildings with the thing.

XpHaZe Infantry ~Marathon~ has spawned a few new ones for me.

Now, ya might be a n00b if. . .

109) . . .when instructed(either personally or impersonally) to mine your base, you refuse to do so.

110) . . .you have a cloaked unit and don't open fire on someone ripping your ally a new one because you want to remain cloaked.

111) . . .you ignore activated Beacons, even though they're right within earshot and you're an Engineer or a Hotwire/Technician.

112) . . .you don't keep the people deactivating Beacons covered.

113) . . .you place Beacons in tunnels.

114) . . .you invest all your piles of Credits in Beacons, then place all you afford in front of a nearby Purchase Terminal one after another, either because it's near the end of the game, or just for the Hell of it.(This especially applies if you're doing it to make a bunch of noise and/or lag the Hell out of everyone.)

115) . . .you think that being cloaked means you're completely and utterly invisible to everyone at any distance, especially if you put a blank "cloaked effects" skin in your local directory.

116) . . .you quietly stalk someone as a cloaked unit then get ticked when they spin around and shoot you right between the eyes.(No excuses. We can still hear you. In most maps. . . Damned Hourglass tunnels. . .)

117) . . .you don't think you're doing a bad job even though the only person on your team doing anything worth doing says that you suck. This doesn't apply if you're doing something productive, even if it's just repairing the Harvester or something.

Edit: Fixed the numbers.

#108. You are a Sakura and your running behind your buddy whos an SBH. You see someone and pick them off, only to have their buddies ambush you and your buddy(Who is detected because he gets hit.) with Tanks and Humvees.

#109. You think that the Ramjet Rifle is the most godlike weapon, and wherever you fire, something is going to die.

#110. You mine the barracks with all of TWO mines when its your only building, then cuss everyone out for messing up your mining job when they start to mine it.

Here we go again, folks.

Ya might very well be a n00b if. . .

130) . . .a vote is initialized to kick someone for a valid reason(Tunnel Beacons, Beacon spamming, driving vehicles in tunnels, hillcamping, etc.) and you don't vote. Remember, if you're not part of the solution, you're part of the problem.

131) . . .you hillcamp, tunnel-Beacon, drive vehicles in tunnels, break any server's clearly-written rules, or just generally make an ass of yourself in a server.

132) . . .you're an admin for a server and "see" something happening(weither it be in-game or through the console) but don't step in to put a stop to it.

133) . . .you continue to use a Black Hand unit(Laser Chaingunner) against an Officer even though the Officer keeps kicking your butt.(I'm way guilty of this one.)

134) . . .you get into a fight with a unit on the other team, then when you beat them, you call them a "<unit> n00b" for no apparent reason other than you beat them. This especially applies if the person you beat is using a "non-tactical" unit; a unit without Stealth or secondary functions on their weapons. It's debatable if this also transfers over into Vehicle vs. Vehicle fights. But on that note. . .

135) . . .you call someone a "Mendoza/Mobius n00b" after beating them with your Infantry, even though they were able to take out your Mammoth or Flame Tank all by themselves.

136. you change important things when making a map, like increasing the mammoth missile range, winding up in very unbalanced fights between infantry and mammoths. especially bad when the missile range is higher than mendoza's volt gun, rendering it pointless to give chase to a mammoth.

Ya might be a n00b if. . .

138) . . .every time you get completely owned by a Sniper who's using RenGuard, you claim "hax," "cheater," or say something along the lines of "kick <so-and-so> he's a cheater!!" without valid proof. This is especially true when said sniper has a score lower than the top 3.

139) . . .you go AFK for an entire match or longer after purchasing and hopping into any vehicle and don't announce you're going AFK.

140) . . .you have to ask how to purchase the normal units and vehicles.

141) . . .you continually "attack" your own team out of sheer boredom. Even if Friendly Fire is off, this is highly annoying. And on that same note. . .

142) . . .you heal or attack an ally Stealthed Unit who is hiding in plain sight.

Maybe. Maybe not. I generally stick with Stealth Black Hand units(Laser Chaingunners) unless we're in absolute turmoil. But it is happened before. Not just to me, but to a few other people I've seen. But most recently, a Sniper unit decided to try and hide behind me and use me as a human meat shield on some server. A. Sniper. Unit. And they kept firing while hiding behind me, too. Honestly, that's not a terrible strategy if you can avoid hitting the Stealth Black Hand unit.(And you got his go-ahead for "Operation: Stealth Meat Shield". . .) But you're not real likely to find someone willing to waste 400/800 Credits like that. Anyway. . .

Ya might be a n00b if. . .

147) . . .you think Walljumping by yourself on any server isn't an exploit.
148) . . .you think your can justify cheating/exploiting by way of calling the opposite team "campers". This is especially when the other team is either defending their base from a massive invasion, or dying so much they're constantly respawning.
149) . . .you like root beer but drink anything less than IBC Root Beer while playing. :3
And now. . .the moment you've all been waiting for. . .
150 for teh wen!!) You might very well be a n00b if you can't be arsed to say full words over voice-chat and instead use net abbreviations such as "lol," "gg," or "omfg".

YOU ARE A NOOB if you do thise stand watching your base blowing up telling everyone

"building needs repair!" when your have hotty,tech.

if you stand in the middle of the map looking right at a sniper and not opening fire.

you are a noob if you get mvp on no noobs server.

buy a mammy and get it blow up just as you leave the base.

watching a nuke,ion cannon counting down to strike and once it goes off you tell your team "you was crap you all noobs" even when you had a tech,hotty.

you open fire on some one on the other side of the map even when the retical is gray.

This is for Halo, since nobody is stupid enough to do it in Ren.

You are a Noob, if you are playing a CTF match and you're entire team, including you, decide its a time to cyber.

My clan mate caught 4 people doing this, I swear to god. He was on Sidewinder, and they were in they're base, on top of each other and crouched down. He kept running into their base with a Sniper Rifle and shooting the only female on their team in the head, and then everyone else. What worse, is the fact that one of them was in a clan that I think we are at war with.

It would be somewhat ok if you did it while the base was inactive, and you were defending, but not like they were.

You might be a noob if you are in a game of mesa with 4 people on each side, and you are an sbh so you can watch the GDI vehicles shoot.

You might be a noob if you are an infantry near one of your own buildings and keep spamming, "I need repairs!".

You might be a noob if you are in your base in a vehicle with a technician spamming, "I need repairs!", while your team is rushing, and then call them noobs when they don't repair you.

If you think your refinery getting destroyed is a good thing, you just might be a noob., I agree with this one, o ya and...

If you try to nuke your own base, your a noob

If you host a game with the rules= NO KILLING AND NO BASE KILLING, then you are a noob.

If you jump off a building, THEN YOUR A NOOB.

If you start shooting a door cuz u think a person's there, then u are a noob

If you dont cooperate in coops, then u are a noob

If your a technician and some1 says "I need repairs", And you don't repair him/her, then you are a noob.

IF you stand at the purchase thing and the vehicle limit is limited for 20 min just to build a vehicle, you are a noob

If you are me, then you are a noob.

If you start saying stuff like "!donate me 100000000" then you are a noob

If you say "!kick [playersname]", and your not the host, then you r a noob!

If you just stand there and shoot a sniper, while he is dodging u, then u r a noob.

If you don't know what a pp or a wf or other shortnames, then you r a noob!!

I was greated with the standard messege of "You can't do that", but I also received a !noob or two from people who thought I was serious, so to add to the list:

- If you try to give yourself a recomendation, you're a newb.
