well this isnt a big bug but it can be annoying:

when you purchase a granadier go stand next to a pct point your gun with his tip on the pct and shoot youll notice nothing hapens but actually the granade is flying somewhere outside the building so you can shoot inside to outside

srry if it already was mentioned

How about this bug....

I've had this numerous times, and so have others.

The Harvester ran into my Stank and I got thrown out the map spinning like a mad man.

I stole a Buggy on Islands recently, when I hopped in...I was invisible and had 1-3 fps.

New maps are cool....but new maps will not fix the current bugs we have in Renegade.

Never the less, it's a bug. If it can be fixed, it should...otherwise...why even bother making patches.

Good point, I mean if black hand want to keep this community going then they better get there arse in gear.I've completed the campaign, I've played my fair share online so the way I see it and im sure many others will to this game has bugs which will increase people's boredom and will to play online so if they have completed the campaign to I'm sure they would just play something else.So I say fix the bugs or look forward to a community of 0 members on renforums.

Get our arse in gear? Thank goodness all of the community isn't like you or we wouldn't be doing anything. You do realize we are just members of the community who do this for free and without any official support, right?
