..I don't know whether or not I should thank it for trying to redraw the game textures.

Probably not Windows' fault here. Looks more like something's wrong with your graphics card.

I had a similar problem a while back, then it became worse and worse...In the end I wasn't even able to surf the web normally without my pc crashing every once in a while. It was the broken memory on my video card that caused it all, hope you don't have to go through the same thing.
