For all gsa clans and wol clans join: <http://www.clanwars.cc/main/default.aspx>

Then go down and scroll through the different games and select the renegade league. Register your clan today to play for the cup beginning next month. This league's new manuel report system looks really good and it will be alot better as more clans join the ladder.

SS of league:

It should be starting june first and would be alot better as more clans continue to join the league. It's been up for 2 hours so far 5 clans have registered. Register your clan today!

[BBF] was the third clan to register for this. The thing that annoys me is you can only have 10 people in each clan. This means any big clans (more than 10) must register several clans. And since you cannot play for more than one clan that means you will only be able to play matches with some of your clanmates.

I'd imagine that's because there aren't that many clans playing from the old auto-report league. Less people in a clan = more clans = more competition. Not many WOL clans on that ladder have 10 active members anymore anyway. Do all 20 of you guys play clanwars? Everytime I've played a gamespy clan, they've had to schedule two weeks in advance so they could make sure all their best players were there. If you're really concerned about it you should make a post and ask.

We registered there but I have to agree with gbull, what I have seen of it is far from impressive.

The controls and navigations is atrocious, the 'forum' for each clan is hidden away so most people dont even notice it....bascally the site layout is terrible...

Its a good idea but they need to increase the player limit to 20 (to mirror the WOL player limit) and make serious improvements to the site if its to work...
