You need a serial for Renguard? 1) Renguard doesn't need a serial, it makes it's own food via photosynthesis

2) If the serial is for renegade,let me personaly suggest something:

I have many, many serials. Many many serials indeed. I have serials for all Command & Conquer games(except EA's little venture into the series, thank god), several first-person shooters, and some general applications and random games. I don't know how many altogether, but I'm figuring greater than ten and less than fifty.

It was a JOKE. Messing around with how the word SOUNDS instead of how its spelled. What kind of sense of humor do you have? I thought it was funny.

READ THE STICKIES GOSH DARNIT!

Renx wrote...

While installing the FDS, when it prompts you to enter a serial, now you can enter any combination of numbers that is 22 characters long, and starts with 0669!

After the FDS is installed, the serial will no longer checked for authenticity, at all. Absolutely any combination of numbers for the serial in server.ini will work so long as it is kept at a length of 22 characters.

It isn't about how much or whether or not you have a Renegade Fds Serial. Actually, the new serials are easier to get a hold of.

the serials for the client and the server are totally different, nice job wasting your money but you can use gameserials for your server, atleast on xwis you can. And else you should change some things in the wolapi or something.

pieces out, put it back together and works fine.

when you place a disk on the tray, the tray slides in and the disk is encased inside 2mm aluminium casing. i see no chance in hell that the disk can shoot out of the metal case (it was in mythbusters but they had to use a 15,000 rpm router for that).

yeah but the EA disc are really bad quality. My game disc is in like 6 pieces (it was held together with the sticker kinda thing on top) when I got it the last time out of the cd tray
And my install disc has some cracks in it, luckily I backedup the game before
