Simple, if you try to bypass renguard with cyberprick's little bypass, you get banned. Really not a hrd concept to grasp.

I believe that they give you 1 chance and then your screwed and seeing how you used your one chance, goodbye. I don't think RG would ban you for a clean installation.

mac wrote on Mon, 06 June 2005 19:21No bypasser will ever be unbanned. That's our policy.

Stop whining.

The topic says "again"? How can you be banned again when you can clearly see that you get one chance, so you can't be banned "again".

Great comeback.

I swear my sarcasm gets worse by the minute.

Look, it's simple, if you try to bypass renguard, your serial key will get banned and you can't use that serial key with renguard anymore.

Why the Hell do people try and bypass RenGuard in the first place? Is it really that vital that RenGuard not be running? It takes maybe a whole 1% of total RAM to run, and without it, you can't very well play on a good deal of the populated servers. Unless you really feel the need to play on those servers where Wall-Hacks("Final Renegade") and crap are required, I just don't see the point.(And yes, some servers exist. It's like those weird-ass servers that want you to use those "look every direction and automatically shoot at a target's head at 100 rounds per second" hacks on Counter-Strike.)

At participating Orlando Chevron's you get a free copy of Renegade if you buy 20 dollars of gas.

If you did cheat in any way, then you don't deserve to play on servers where the owners want to make sure you run anti-cheat so you can't cheat.
