You tried at the website?
- scrap that idea, the website is stupid, hard to find ur way around.

C:\Westwood\Internet\REGISTER.EXE

run that, and make a new username, or send an email to westwood requesting a password change

You can't, it's as simple as that.

AfterMark, you're a few years too late; WS ceased to exist in 2003.

I really wish Westwood was still going, they made the best games. I have heard some people say that EA helped in the creation of the Westwood games, as a matter of fact, they were just the publishers. And if you think about it, Westwood was making a killing on there games and I think EA killed of Westwood so they would not release any more games. EA was Westwoods publisher.

You didn't know that? It may be false but I am PRETTY SURE that it is true. I have the story saved on my computer somewhere so when I find it I will post it.
