Starting the cynnesism, it was never a question of if, only of when and how many people got caught.

But yes, my thoughts are for the victims and their families, which get more and more as the hours tick by.

The Terrorists have won this battle. They've diverted news coverage away when the Worlds Eyes are on Great Britain with the opening of the the G8 meeting and winning the Olympic bid. There is no doubt in my mind that disrupting the G8 was their intention and they have succeeded, Tony Blair is leaving to go back to London. Apparently some Italian group have claimed credit for the attack but nobody believes them as attacking London would have no effect on Italian politics.

It could have been the French, they've always been sore losers.

From what I heard, Al Quieda took responsibility.

Really? That must have happened in the last 20 minutes as I was watching the TV not long ago and they said this Italian group had taken responsibility and Al Qaeda don't always do it.

I think I may have misheard what was said on the TV because my mum was on the phone to me. The group taking responsibility are called "The Secret Al Qaeda working in Europe" or something like that. The guys on TV must have been talking about something else for a minute.

I'm at a loss for words...the first bomb went off at 8:51 am. Why is that time familiar???

STFU Tool. How dare you suggest such a thing! Of course there's a rivalry between the British and the French, but we would NEVER wish something like this on them.

I only wonder if this is part of something wider or not...

Edit: You're probably stressed and people make sick jokes to cope. Sorry I overreacted.

Hello jaded Londoners, Please note that your country has just been bombed by terrorists. At this point you are supposed to feel anger, and want to find terrorists from were ever they hide. Have a nice day and kill bad people where ever they may hide! (HINT: Middle East)

Also, you let radical Muslim groups hide in plain site within your borders and plot against your great country. Don't let them pull that. Go kick them out, get a patriot act, and learn what JINGOISM means!

There is more then likely twice the amount of terrorists living in the US, than in England. Not every country has to follow the US in single file, nor would they ever want to.

DarkDemin wrote on Mon, 11 July 2005 12:35Go kick them out, get a patriot act, and learn what JINGOISM means!

You do know Jingoism is an British concept? If you know your British History you'll know Great Britain's policies to Europe have followed Jingoism for centuries, not allowing any one European state control too much of Europe. The term was first used in connection with British policies who sought to bring England into the Russo-Turkish War (1877–1878) on the side of the Turks. It derived from a song:

Quote: The "Dogs of War" are loose and the rugged Russian Bear,
All bent on blood and robbery has crawled out of his lair...
It seems a thrashing now and then, will never help to tame...
That brute, and so he's out upon the "same old game"...
The Lion did his best... to find him some excuse...
To crawl back to his den again. All efforts were no use...
He hunger'd for his victim. He's pleased when blood is shed...
But let us hope his crimes may all recoil on his own head...

Chorus:

We don't want to fight but by jingo if we do...
We've got the ships, we've got the men, and got the money too!
We've fought the Bear before... and while we're Britons true,
The Russians shall not have Constantinople...

The misdeeds of the Turks have been "spouted" through all lands,
But how about the Russians, can they show spotless hands?
They slaughtered well at Khiva, in Siberia icy cold.
How many subjects done to death we'll ne'er perhaps be told.
They butchered the Circassians, man, woman yes and child.
With cruelties their Generals their murderous hours beguiled,
And poor unhappy Poland their cruel yoke must bear,
While prayers for "Freedom and Revenge" go up into the air.

(Chorus)

May he who 'gan the quarrel soon have to bite the dust.
The Turk should be thrice armed for "he hath his quarrel just."
'Tis said that countless thousands should die through cruel war,
But let us hope most fervently ere long it shall be o'er.
Let them be warned: Old England is brave Old England still.
We've proved our might, we've claimed our right, and ever, ever will.
Should we have to draw the sword our way to victory we'll forge,
With the Battle cry of Britons, "Old England and St George!"

The word Jingo is a euphemism for Jesus without blaspheming it is derived from a Basque (part of Spain) word for God.

By the way the only thing I had to research for this post of the full song I knew the rest of it before.

We did destroy the Bekaa Valley with the U.S.S. North Carolina's guns during that whole "Israel" thing. That's where all these terrorists are coming from. And now many, many more are going to be coming from Iraq. And since Bush has done nothing to secure any form of border, that's a bad thing unless we get a new government soon.

When we liberated Iraq the terrorists fled to Iran and Syria. Now they are coming back from those countries and attacking us.

Why are you having such a difficult time understanding this?

You don't have to know or speculate, it's just common sense that terrorists with inadequate weaponry wouldn't want to stick around to see themselves get smeared across the street by U.S. military strength. However, your claims about the Iraqi's blowing themselves up is completely unfounded. Why would they want to commit suicide after we finally established a civilized and working government and infrastructure?

It's really not that difficult for the normal man to understand, yet you fail to because you try to hard to be smart.

And stop trying to derail the current topic at hand. We're talking about where the terrorists are coming from, not the treatment of detainees and prisoners.

AND if you're so hellbent on proving me wrong, where is your proof that the Iraqi's are killing themselves?
