So, you're entering the disk to download the disk?

...

What?

. . .you're going to have to be a wee bit more specific than that if you expect any help.

Press the print screen key on your keyboard, and paste into like, MS paint or something and save it.

It's on the clipboard, not in a directory.  Like I said, go into MS  Paint or something and paste in in there and save it.

You aint listening. Its the "Copy Target" item. Go into MS Paint, right click on the board, and click "Paste." Atleast i think thats what hes saying.

When you press Print Screen, it's sort of like doing a Ctrl + C, but it's copying the whole screen. So, (once again) you go into MS Paint, then press Ctrl + V or something so that the screen shot pastes. Then save and upload, etc.

Ok.. after you press 'print scrn' nothing will appear to happen, but what you have done is copied the screen. So after you press 'print scrn', open up MS paint, go under edit then hit paste.

LOL... well, you can change the language in your operating system if you have Windows XP.  I don't know if it'll change the language that appears in the error, but you could try.

Here's how you do it if you have XP:

Open your control panel by going to Start > Control Panel.

Click on the circled category:

Then click on this circled item:

Change the language to English:

Like I said, I have no idea if this will change the language that appears in the error.

EDIT: By the way, that is a send error report, and everyone knows what that says.

Doesn't really matter, I know what the error is.  Now all I gotta do is somehow make Windows make the error so that I can take a screenshot and show you what it says.

EDIT: I searched Google and found an example:

Just replace "Internet Explorer" with "Renegade" and there's your error, lol.

That error could mean anything, so it's practically impossible for me to tell.  If worst comes to worse, try reformatting your computer if you know how.

i just formatted my computer and i tried to install ren, but it wouldn't and showed that error.

---

Subject: Re: Renegade me mad!

Did it give you the error before you reformatted? If not, there must of been something different you installed or did after you reformatted.

So, you want to have your screen size larger so you can play Renegade with a larger screen size?
Hmm, let me think... GET OVER IT! Ive played Renegade with your current screen size, and loved it. Why wont it let you increase the size? Does it not change? You have to hit "Apply" in order for it to change.

Do exactly what i say:
Open that screen.
Move the bar to the right 1 click.
Press "Apply."(That button in the bottom right)
If that does not work, RESTART YOUR COMPUTER AND TRY AGAIN.

Have you tried restarting your computer as a said?
What do you mean, cant scroll to bigger? Does it not let you? If it doesnt, just to be safe you should perform  a Virus Scan. Also try deleting your background image and then changing the size.

Since your reformat have you reinstalled your graphics drivers?  If not that could be the source of your problems.

sigh I told you to reinstall your graphics drivers at the top of this page..

If you dont know what type of graphics card your computer has then your stuck, shouldnt have reinstalled windows

EDIT: and why the heck did u upload a BMP image and not a jpg?

omg, all of you people are lost except for dan.  What video card do you have? If you do not know, go to Start > Run and type dxdiag.  Click yes when it asks you something, and once it's done loading click the display tab and tell me what video card it says you have.
