If you are really interested, you should send them all to Blackhand Studios, so we can create a page where people can request them, much like the orginal FDS request page..

pm me for details..

Well. Before you go into BH-Studios, I hope that you could PM one serial for me? Thank you.

And, mac, make it so that no one can take more than 2 [Maybe 3] serials. Or someone will take most of those.

Well. I'd be really glad if you PM one for me.

Good idea mac, but if there's no way of limiting the amount of serials per player, as you have a limited number, one idiot is gonna spend his day emptying them... And then we are back to scratch... I'm not sure if there is a better possible way though...

I can think of several ways of not allowing any bots/scripts to get all the serials. Ie, restrictions by ip, email, hostname and entering the words from a graphic on each request (how was that called?)

There normally shouldn't be THAT many requests for a FDS-serial, so it should be pretty easy to spot when someone is trying to abuse the system. If you have some time, then make it that the request must be aprooved by yourself. If 50 requests arrive in like half an hour where normally only 3 arrive then, you will spot something that a machine will not spot .

I'm with Mac on this one. Be charitable. Donate them all to Blackhand Studios so they can be distributated on a first-come first-server policy via web form. Please.
And Mac. Limit, like. . . Five per customer(IP address) and one a day, or so. That's what I'd do.
I can't see where anyone would need more than five at any given time anyway. One is more than enough for most people as most people run Cable or T1 lines anyway.

I personally think this keys should be given to blackhand studios who will make a page like the old westwood one (who don't work anymore). based on email.

Also i think is there is a n00b who take all the keys i don't think he would be running 9150 servers at same time! so i by just looking USA & European you understand how many servers are running!

Donate BHS

Holy crap, he came back. Glad I didn't place money on that bet.

Edit: I did the math. $45,750 total. Frankly, five buck per serial isn't that bad if you think about it. It also ensures that someone doesn't do like those botters did and get an assload of serial numbers for the Hell of it.

. . .of course. . .

Considering you have 9,150, I figure you're one of those particular "botters" I speak of. What you do with your ill-gotten gains is none of my business, but if it were me, I'd give them to Blackhand Studios.
