Yay... I finally got around to it. Marvel in it.

There are a few places in the CSS I might have missed. Please let me know if you find anything unbearably bad.

If you really truly hate it, you can go into the "User CP" link at the top, then to "Settings" and change your theme back to "Default" at the bottom.

I've seen it, and have but one thing to say. GO CRIMSON!!!

My gripe is I first saw it as a Guest, and when I logged in, it went back to being all blue and white again.

WOW!

NICE JOB CRIMMY!

EDIT: my only complaint is that the light bulbs are a bit too big on the main page and we need the old Edit/Quote etc images

Hey, take what you can get.

But yeah, I know there's more to be done but at least it's at a good stopping point for the night.

if you want the buttons to look hawt, I recommend asking apocmedia, they're great at skinning. Or just ask Hydra, either way really.

What? No Brotherhood scheme?

I like this layout, bu8t it's a little too green-and-blue for my tastes. The black is awesome, though. I should be thankful that it's not Renegade-GDI Yellow-and-Brown, come to think of it. Icky.

Were you here for the Forums before the White one? This is the old colors, and personally, i think it should stay just the way it is right now. It confused the hell outta me when it changed, since i couldnt find anything. I got used to it, so get used to this one.

YAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAY! I was absolutely shocked when I visited lol. Everything looks so much sleeker and sharper and easier on the eyes.

Only thing I've noticed is that on the subforum listings on the bottom of the page, the forums are invisible unless I highlight them (I'm using Opera), and I have not had that happen before.

Crimson if you have the time can you make it 'more' like the old forums by making the posts have the alternating black and green backgrounds?
