most likely the server is not running a new version of scripts.dll, so its still loading all the redundant map files the newer scripts block...

There are possible things that influence load times such as processor speed and processor cache, Memory, Graphics card, power supply, and hard drive.

Usually when you load for the first time it takes a little longer due to these factors above, then it should go faster overtime when u play.

The first time you load a map each time you run the game is always slower than the following map loads.
