I'm just waiting to see the idiot's response. What I find funny most is, to be liked by an idiot, you have to act like an idiot. You have to bring yourself down to their level, or even lower, for them to not feel intimidated by you. Sometimes they'll be cocky enough to try and exert themselves over you, but they'll fail. Then they'll try and bring you down to their level. It's quite an interesting pattern. You'll notice it everywhere.

Are you two complete idiots? Do you not see a difference in our actions compared to your own? Hijacking a thread is clearly not the same as rejoicing over the death of one's beloved pet. While neither you nor I knew the cat, we can speculate that gbull thought of the cat as part of his own family. If your cat died, no matter how much of an idiot I think that you are, I would never dare to disrespect the relationship that you had with your own pet. I, personally, had my dog put down in December, and I know exactly how it feels to lose a pet. I doubt the reality of the situation can sink into your mind. Then again, it usually doesn't for 8 year olds. Grow the fuck up, kids.

Your constant attempt to belittle people who obviously are superior to you in intelligence, and probably physical strength is laughable. Tell me, would you be so fast to say such things if I stood before you in real life? Consider that I am 6'3" 205lbs., and benched 250lbs. about a year ago. If you say yes, you would be the first.

I'm thinking of makin my own server sided mod of sp via isd/idd/objects. Then mess around. I'm thinkin put a beacon in one area that fairly well gaurded then a pedastal for each team bby eachother. Then all the bots would be put on the mutant team. It wouldn't be too much different than the normal co op just would have my own touch to it. Btw do you even play ren anymore?

It's a good game and all but i guess it does get a lil boring after playing it too long. I think i got my copy back in like 2003. I've never actually done server sided but I'm prolly gonna try it tomorrow. Who knows, i may end up making something fun. I've made a few maps (I'm just a begginer mapper) my terrain may not look that good but i actually do make a few cool bot things. I got some cool ideas from this awesome mapper. For example how to trigger a bot drop (like a chinook dropping off a tank or soldiers) when stepping in a zone. But I'm curious as to whether that may crash other people who may be playing if i put it in server sided. Who knows. Experimentation is usually fun though.

The plans I have for the site are as follows:

- Each Member gets a blog page
- Each Member gets unlimited image uploading
- Each Member will have a small space for files
- Each Member will be able to post their own ideas for raging (ie thread hijacking, irc spamming, etc...) on a central page for all to read.
- All new articles will be posted to the main page in headline format for visitors to read.
- Premium members will be able to create their own subforums
- Premium members will receive their own subdomains and large scale hosting.
- Premium members will be able to have images included with their headlines.
- Premium members will have access to moderator access on main forums.

That is all I have so far.

Being banned for this is highly worth it.

In the period of two days a new group was born, we have conversed about many different things, and two n00bs got totally owned. This is just great. Anyone is free to join the e-terrorists unless they give the group a bad name then they will be kicked out. I have already started a txt file for rules on the site. (legal stuff was done last night)

The ground rules for becoming a Insane Space e-terror member are simple and are designed to keep you and us out of legal trouble. All rules must be followed or certain consequences will be handed out. The rules and consequences are as follows.

1.) DDoSing

a.) This activity is illegal and should not be performed under this groups name for any reason what-so-ever.

b.) If a member is found committing this act he/she will be kicked out of the group and banned from the web site for a month.

c.) Any member that uses the sites name while committing an act like this will be kicked out of the group and banned from the site permanently.

2.) Virus distribution

a.) This activity is illegal and should not be performed under this groups name for any reason what-so-ever.

b.) If a member is found committing this act he/she will be kicked out of the group and banned from the web site for a month.

c.) Any member that uses the sites name while committing an act like this will be kicked out of the group and banned from the site permanently.

3.) Cheating in an online game

a.) WE ARE NOT MYGOT

b.) If a member is found committing this act he/she will be kicked out of the group and banned from the web site for a month.

c.) Any member that uses the sites name while committing an act like this will be kicked out of the group and banned from the site permanently.

The ground rules are simple and easy to follow. Don't break them I don't want to have to ban anyone. All rules should be taken as if they were set in diamond (they are not breakable). These are working rules any other questionable activity is to be reviewed by site administrators and dealt with accordingly.

I saved the entire topic btw

Insanespace.com is not responsible for the actions of its members. This site simply provides a meeting place for people to share their ideas online with others around the world. In no way, shape, or form does Insanespace.com facilitate hacking/terrorism/racism. The name "e-terrorists" is simply a label developed by the members of this site for what the majority of the public thinks of us as. In real life most of the members of Insanespace.com are law abiding citizens.

We scrimmaged East Grand Rapids all the Time. They never had to play teams with the caliber of the OK Red during the regular season, thats why they always had undefeated seasons. If East Grand Rapids was in the OK Red, they would have never acheived 3 State Championships. Grandville, East Kentwood, or Rockford would have knocked them out.

Game sucked, Carr sucks, Henne sucked, refs sucked. The only thing good was the Michigan defense after the first series. They played like they should have, but the offense just reeked. Carr needs to be fired.

Is 20 pages a new record for a thread on these forums?

If not, 20 pages in the ammount of time we've done it in must be a record!

It's clearly not the lengthiest... Roof Gnome thread is the longest.

Yes, it does feel good. Let's do some more

Roof Gnomes was 34 pages long. Let's get past that, then focus completely on Nopic's topic.

Each new post, we'll try to break a record

Roof Gnomes is 57.

Thats a shame, but the ammount of time it's taken must be the best or pretty close. Especially for 5 or 6 people doing this.

Jake! Why have you not got your plaque in your sig?

Put it in now boyo.

Football = soccer = sucks
American football = varied rugby = better than football by miles.

Just thought I'd clear that up.

Football (soccer for Americans) is infested with utter TWATS e.g. David Beckham.
