I bought Age of Empires when it first came out. I played it for two days. I haven't touched it since. Worst game that I payed full price for.

I disagree, I liked it a lot, but got tired with it sooner then I would have liked, but then that expansion came out, loved it all over again.

Wow looks great! I couldn't find the more important details, like price, release date and system requirements...

I played it for a bit. It looks great but is just a bit to complicated for my liking. I went off and played EBFD after this for some simple fun.

I might download this later the graphics looked pretty good and EE2 is really hard, so maybe this will be a bit easier.

I love its complexity. It's something new in the Age of Empires series. Sadly, I've only played the game for maybe 1.5 hours since I'm swimming under unlimited homework.

I love how these installers check to see if the install directory doesn't exist and if not, ask you if you want to create it. I mean, if I didn't want to create that directory then maybe I didn't want to install the game. Right?

Edit:

To add to the gayness that is AoE, this demo causes my computer to reboot when it is launched.

In what way is this a game breaking thing and why should anyone care? It's just installing the fucking game. I swear, you people post the most petty shit.

Does it make you so mad that you have to take it off topic? You had to take it off topic over something so small? You're just as petty. Idiot.

ANYWAYS, This game is groundbreaking. At least I think so. The graphics are breathtaking. Even if the gameplay isn't so great I think you should download it and check it out for the scenery alone.

This is my personal favriote screenshot:

I was only able to play it for an hour between work school and homework yesterday but it was awsome. I figured it wouldn't be as good because its all in a new age now and not the medieval age but I proved myself wrong.

I'm not to fond of the new ingame control bar's though. I liked the old ones a lot better.

The ships are pretty damn nice. I was expecting some boat that could physically fit an elephant or two inside like in the previous AoE's, but DAMN. When that prettyness appeared by the docks, covering 1/4 of the screen with 1600*1200 resolution...

Boring as hell. Too slow gameplay for me, and it isn't at all that hard as some think it is.

It plays a bit like rise of nations, except worse but with better graphics.

Have you played ANY of the Age of Empires games? It seems like you haven't. ALL of the Age of Empires games have been at the same exact pace.

I'm so excited! AHHH!

I just wish the demo was more stable for me. Anyone having problems with the demo as stuttering sounds and crashes? I can't seem to get the first demo mission to work at all.

And what happened to the one-button option?! Looks like C&C isn't the influence as it used to be...

You're thinking about upgrades and resources. That's really the only part that is slower than usual.

It never crashes for me... nor does the sound stutter. Is your computer decent in the system requirements? Try lowering the graphic settings if possible.

That kind of sucks though, it's a great demo.

I'm not even gonna think about how fast this would crash my computer. I love AoE and all, but my Video Card wouldn't see it my way. Considering I've got about an ATI Radeon 8600 equivalent card, I highly doubt I could play this. I can't even play Doom 3 it lags so bad. It's even the Demo, and on the lowest graphic settings!
