People post pointless topics, we turn them into something of more use. I think when we turned Nopic's post about insulting those effected by Hurricane Katrina into a topic about Penguins, I believe we did a good job.

Of course, now we have to stop. Crimson has stepped in Just lock the topics. Lock = minimal effort. Plus, that would allow the "E-Terrorists" to entertain most (sensible) members.

Locking's our main goal, anyways.

You don't have to split the topics. We do it to topics that serve no logical purpose. Take a look at Nopic's topic about Hurricane Katrina. Don't you think it was better of us to turn it into a topic about penguins? If we didn't, he would have been flamed to Hell.

Locking the topics is so much easier.

We don't have to hijack every topic... some of the less organized "members" seem to not be able to realize this. Crimson we are attempting to organize, and prevent useful topics from being hijacked. I am going to lay down some more "set in stone" rules. All people that would like to consider themselves "members" of the "e-terrorists" go to insanespace.com. E-terrorists might not be the best name for us. We should probably go more of an intelligent name. Which... once again should be posted on the insanespace.com forums.

At least (most of us) aren't attacking meaningful topics. We're just making the stupid/pointless threads entertaining. nopic's Katrina thread is a perfect example of how we directed the thread away from it's original subject matter which was almost necessary or shit would have hit the fan. Also, if the topics aren't locked, we tend to kill them, anyways.

Gbull, the real play on names here, would be to change Oblivion's numbers in his name into "1337" letters, like so: Oblivion165. We all know the letters in Oblivion, since they are in the English language, as is said word "Oblivion" however, not everyone knows the "1337" language, compiled of nothing but numbers. If we considered Oblivion a "1337157" or "Leetist" then his name would instead be "Oblivionigs" which would be translated from slang to "Oblivion Nirs". Now, since we have discovered this, we can now officially mark the Oblivion Nir as a Leetist, thereby lowering his IQ dramatically, down to an astonishing 4.2. Since this IQ is not possible, because there is a percentage in it, it is immediately lowered by half, and the percentage making it a very low number of: 2. Thus, we have just called the Oblivion Nir an idiot.

Can we get this topic locked?

And CPU, when did I make any 'idle threats'? If I make threats, I can surely back them up.

I know the "real" purpose of E-Terrorists:

1. To annoy people who post something by completely redirecting the thread from their intended topic. If you want a thread about penguins, just make one.
2. To act like a bunch of elitest who want only their ideas expressed and to repress all others.
3. To generally act like 12 year olds who think they know everything but don't.

RyuKishen: Your "idle threats" I refer to are in another thread where you were bothering ben for putting an E-Terrorist logo in his sig. If you think you are all bad or know some great hackers (or whatever else you were talking about), I invite you to try them on me, they won't get far. And hopefully, you won't resort to script kiddie DDoS junk either, as I can change my IP at will.

Go shove your ego up your ass. Your assumptions are wrong.

1. Redirecting pointless threads from their intended subjects. If nopic didn't insult Hurricane Katrina victims, it wouldn't have been turned into a thread about penguins.
2. We're only repressing the spammy threads. Hell, I even defended nopic's 9/11 thread, so we're not out to get any specific people. Care to try again?
3. I seem to have a much better grasp on reality than you do, and if that seems arrogant, then so be it. I don't need your approval to feel worthy.

The threats were hot air. I knew ben would relinquish the image from his signature if I had enough of a convincing threat. It appeared to be a threat, but it was more of a manipulation.

What we do is we take totally pointless and annoying topics, and we make them into something entertaining until it gets locked. We gladly let people express their ideas. It's just when people post stuff that is pointless or offensive, we decide that we want to take the focus off of that topic. When we take offensive topics off-topic, we actually save them from the amount of flames that they would receive.

About my "idle threat" to ben, it wasn't about getting any hackers or anything. It was about filing a law suit against him for using copyrighted material without the consent of the owner. And that is VERY possible. Besides, he took the picture out of his signature before we had to do anything about it

Hmm... seems like repression of his opinions for yours to me. He had a thread about Katrina, you didn't like it, so you wanted to change it to something that fell into your own ideals.

2. We're only repressing the spammy threads. Hell, I even defended nopic's 9/11 thread, so we're not out to get any specific people. Care to try again?

"Spammy" threads are up to the mods, they can lock them if they want. No need to waste time and cause confusion by having a thread with one title but about something completely different.

3. I seem to have a much better grasp on reality than you do, and if that seems arrogant, then so be it. I don't need your approval to feel worthy.

Yeah, I'm the arrogant one.

Whether manipulation or not, it was still an idle threat.

Suing someone over an E-Terrorist logo is unrealistic, even while technically possible. Nobody would pay the amount it would take to prosecute such a case, let alone finding a lawyer who would do it without charging you an arm and a leg for handling such a frivolous case.

Anyone who thinks that they should be in charge of censoring other people's posts because they want to judge everyone and everything by their own morals is just being ethnocentric, which is being arrogant. His post obviously offended people, therefore it "hurts" them. It may be the internet, but it's still people reading it, and it still references a horrible situation in the real world. Internet or not, it was inappropriate, so we decided to turn the sadistic topic into something random.

We are damn well aware of what we're doing. We're simply taking a stupid topic someone else made and turning it into a stupid topic that we made. Just... more entertaining. Crimson asked us to stop, and guess what? We stopped. Imagine that.

Because we see a stupid topic and decide to derail it, we're egocentric? It's called "hijacking". You said it yourself. It's just the fucking internet. If someone is "embarrassed" because their thread is "hijacked" then they shouldn't be on the fucking internet.

"TheKing'sThrone" If their opposition defeats them in an argument, no matter how badly wounded they may be, idiots will strike back in a futile attempt to regain any ego, dignity, and territory lost in the argument. This is what's known as the "Adamian Principle". They will continue to dig themselves deeper and deeper into a hole without realizing it in an attempt to try outwit and/or outlast their opposition. 99% of the time, this results in failure and humiliation for the idiot. Though the argument may be over and the idiot defeated, they will still try and maintain dignity by claiming a false victory over their opposition.

They're just words? Is that so? Words hold a lot more value than just the letters that they're made up of. Words can hurt. Words express feelings, thoughts, views, etc... Words are spoken/typed for a reason. They're not just spewed out to necessarily be taken lightly. Obviously you see something wrong with threats, but... they're just words. They're not actions, so they don't mean anything. If they don't mean anything, why do you concern yourself with them? Why do you concern yourself with me, gbull, and others if all we type is just words? Obviously, it's the internet and everything typed is worth nothing, not even the bandwidth it takes for you to read them. Again, I ask you, why do you concern yourself with them then? You obviously feel that what you have to say is important if you have taken this much time to argue with us. What makes your words worth more than nopic's? Why should I pay any more attention to what you have to say than what he does? You obviously feel that your words are far more important and actually mean something whereas what nopic types has no meaning and are just words. If that's not egocentric, then I don't know what is.

By the time I'm offended by his post, I have already read it. It's kind of hard to ignore it after you read it, huh?

Funny how most people found entertainment in what we were doing. Pray tell how that is embarrassing.

I'm sorry to tell you, but "alert" systems have been along a lot longer than just the terrorist one and many are no more serious than gbull's. However, since the Homeland Security's system is based on terrorism, and we're "E-Terrorists", they kind of go hand-in-hand. The emulation of the terror system means nothing other than for humor. Obviously, you're offended by it. Why? You said they're just words.

A. Wrong. Double posting isn't just posting the same thing twice, it's also posting twice, both within a very short time span of the other being posted. Meaning simply that, if you post something at noon on Sunday, and then post something one hour later after nobody has posted anything, then you are double posting.

Anyway, too much to cover individually, but I'll cover the high points.

As I already said, anyone who copies the DHS is an idiot. It doesn't offend me, it is just a fact.

Double posting is only if you post the same thing, if you are making another point, or replying to another post, it isn't double posting.

"Excuse me for just being a Science, Spelling, Math and Grammar genius. I never thought that I would need all those skills plus the skill to debate with someone as retarded as you."
If you are such a genius in those fields, why did you capitalize them when you shouldn't have?

"By the time I'm offended by his post, I have already read it. It's kind of hard to ignore it after you read it, huh?"

When you start feeling offended you should just go: "It is just words, who cares?" and stop feeling offended.

Now that you guys have (finally) stopped thread hijacking, there really isn't much point in continuing this thread.

P.S.: The 12 hours weren't for "thinking up an argument", it was because it was time for me to go to sleep so I can get up in time for college. I'm not staying up late on your account.

Please show me where it's "fact" that by copying the DHS "Terror Alert" system makes someone an idiot. I highly doubt you have at least a bachelors in psychology. In fact, I highly doubt you're even going into psychology, so stop acting like you know everything.

Did I not already explain how they're more than just words? Words are what we use to communicate emotions and feelings (along with actions). Words can never be "just words" if they form a thought/idea. They mean something, and they are meant to mean something. To try and take away their meaning means you're taking away the meaning of languages and verbal communication. If verbal communication means nothing then our words are just "sounds", and if they're just sounds then we're no higher on the chain than other mammals because these are just words.

No, it may not be english class, but how you talk reflects your intelligence. How you type reflects how you talk. That is what he was saying.

I don't get why people can't spend an extra 10 seconds of their life typing in proper English. Fair enough if you are foreign and aren't very good.

But I expect more of perfectly capable English-writing people.

To all the 1337 sp33k3rs: Like God Of Death stated, how you type reflects your intelligence. I hope you realise why many people on here don't take you seriously.

While this may not be English class, it doesn't hurt to use proper grammar. Judging from your posts, you're still in middle school, so you really probably should be practicing accurate grammar rather than the bullshit you're spewing.

Oblivion, lol, tell me you didn't just create "CPUKiller" and "intergalacticpriest" so you would have others to argue on your side in this thread? (Or so you could keep up your "let's stop this and agree to disagree etc. etc. we're setting a bad example for the new members etc."?)

But like I said before, you guys stopped with your hijacking so I don't care anymore.

No i disagree, people can be very intellengent and just not give a rats ass on how they type. However, typing like a TOTAL retard is alittle questionsable but when a person has 5-10 errors in a paragraph i consider that acceptable.

There are plenty enough places on the net where I hang out and am known as CPU Killer, plenty enough to differentiate between myself and Oblivion.

I'll give you a couple of URLs on your request, don't want to be accused of spamming.

For what it's worth, intergalacticpriest's IP is substantially different from CPUkiller's.

There is one set of IPs for people on DSL in this county, and another set for those on Dial Up is why they are so different.

I did find out intergalacticpriest is who I thought it was, just one of my brother's friends (and an immature one @ that. Hangs out @ totse, etc.)
