WinBot is an IRC bot. What are your thoughts about IRC bots? S should I try to script my own or use another pre-made bot?

I would suggest to make your own. Depending on what you need the bot for, making your own is probably best. If you need a bot right away for some reason then for sure go with a premade one.

Its always good to learn new skills and its a lot easier to learn if you have a project to do.

If you're going to use pre-written code, the least you could do is use a common (read: real) language.

I hear ya. I had been using WinBot, but I recently switched to mIRC as my bot. I learned how script using the /help scripts and the friendly help techs on the BeyondIRC network.
