Quote:Warblog: A blog that primarily deals with war. Filled with whiny blow hards who are fixated on their stubborn ideas and conspiracy theories. For example, there are countless hours pissed away by conspiracy theorists who think the WTC towers were demolished by bombs planted by the government. These armchair engineers write endlessly about how the physics of the collapse was impossible, how the temperature wasn't hot enough to melt steel, and how the planes were carrying missiles. Of course, the one thing they don't postulate is a REASON.

My personal favorite warblog was one that had a flash animation with people who were quoted as saying "it didn't sound like a plane to me... it sounded like a missile." Thank you Joe Nobody for giving me your expert opinion on what missile sounds like, because gas station superintendents are usually the best people to ask about the sonic signature of ballistic missile thrust.

Emo: An abbreviation for loser. Emo is the new goth, except goths are still around, so it's becoming almost unbearable.

Nice find.

Maddox is a blowhard. While a lot of his works are amusing and entertaining, he's losing his touch. From what I know, he's starting to lose some popularity, and the last rant I read of his was rather stupid. He's a fad, and he'll soon be forgotten. Nobody can stand to listen to one person rant, bitch, and moan without serving a purpose other than to speak his mind for very long

Maddox is an unfunny idiot with an enormous ego who thinks the entire world is trying to plagiarize him.

He tries really hard to be funny, but he just isn't, and it's sad.

He also recycles the same "funny" sayings and whatnot that he's used time and again in the past. He's lost his originality.

Maddox has something interesting to say once in a while, as for you bitching about rants, I can only hope that this: Reminds you of something.. hmm..

He's got some interestingly smart views. Some. Some other ones are extremely dumb.

Who said I was complaining about ranting? I just stated that listening to someone rant nonstop gets very old. Also, don't hotlink my images.

I believe Maddox is quite intelligent, and I don't mind his work at all. I can see people getting offended by him, which I find rather amusing as well.

I know he's intelligent, but his rants are getting quite old and tired. They're just not as entertaining as they used to be.

No, I know some Spanish. Me saying English is better is an expression of opinion and mine is the only one that matters to me.

Fair enough. All you said was "English is better" It's not hard to type "In my opinion." to avoid all this confusion.
