<http://www.freewebs.com/juggerknotmusic/main.html>

There's no media on it yet, since it's a very young site and generally a very young project. There are songs that are written but still need recording.

So feel free to give the site a visit! Anybody got tips on making the site a bit more popular?

Your website reminds me of the movie "The Ring" even though i only saw about 3 seconds of it in japanese with the lights out, a big glare on the screen, and with pink eye.

..Yup

I updated the site with a song. It's nothing special, just a simple instrumental. just go to the site and click on "Media", then click on "It's Been Years".

I'll have a listen tomorrow and give you feedback. I'm a bit tipsy at the moment to think straight.

I like it, good job.

Only prob is, if you don't have lyrics to it, it is too repetetive. Maybe add some bass in?

Yes more bass and maybe drums if possible (just soft) definitely agree with the repetitive part, there was going to be a guitar solo in the middle of it but I took it out because I didn't like it...

I don't really want drums in this song.

I'll sort out something to fill in the void or something. Maybe more samples or something hmmm...

If I had any way of recording I'd offer to do some drumming on the track just as a taster, but I'm with you on this one, I reckon it would sounds better without.
