These questions have no point to them at all. Whether or not He could doesn't change the fact that I believe that He exists and created the universe.

As a technicality, since He's the most powerful being in existence, no. Remember the old saying "God works in mysterious ways"? Well, He could have Humans use C4 or something on it, and thereby destroy it. Therefore, this question is easily answered, and serves no point. No, I'm not Christian, however I used to be, and I still remember some things that they taught me about God.

Yes, but only when Tony Blair has 2 hours of sleep and has a hotdog for breakfast the next day.
