That dog probably has some mental disfunction. It sure is entertaining.

I saw this video before, the thing i like most about it is that the foot is actually creeping up on the bone. It looks like its getting closer and closer.

Note how the "leg" stems right from the crack in the sofa. It wouldn't be too hard to fake, but it's still pretty funny.

EDIT: Typo.

It seems like every dog has something messed up in its head. One of my dogs will stare at you for hours on end, the other chews on its foot.

It seems like something may be attached to his foot, moving it, like a string or something.

You guys think everything is fake, that video is a very common psychosis in dogs.

This photo fooled people since 1934, look at the size of those waves, a 30 foot monster, and its tsunami season in the lake of Loch Ness.
