Hmmm--so which would be a bigger symbol of gluttony? That Crunch bar, or wrapping sausage in bacon?

Those things are amazing! I saw something similar when I was at a gas station a few weeks ago(petro canada). It was an Oh Henry that was like the exact same size. I would have bought it but theres no way that I need that much chocolate. Plus I prefer crunch bars.

So... America happens to use its resources instead of letting them waste? Italy makes lots of wine so they drink lots of wine. It just called using your resources....

Yes. Instead of leaving massive mounds of chocolate to sit for thousands of years in landfills, polluting the air and causing birth defects, America assembles its excess chocolate into nine-pound bars. An act which, certainly, could not be misinterpreted as a waste of resources.
