Let's try. All please, post there and ask for the source code.
As you can see, not a lot of people use these forums.

That's our chance to show that Renegade community strong.

Please take time to register there and ask for the source code.

Thank you.

if they all react the way you do, well it won't.

Let's try please. Let's all leave a post there.

The funnies. You would have about no use for it since the game would fuck up badly knowing that only a very few people are able to do something with the code. And some of those people would fuck it up anyways.

well, I don't think EA even checks this forum at all so we should really do some kind of "petition" thing to arouse their interests. Furthermore Renegade is gonna be in The First Decade pack so its time EA thought twice about renny. I think its gonna be well worth a try.

I alerted the thread, so they do know about it now if they didn't before.

Here's the funny thing. Last time I checked that thread at the EA Nation Forums, as far as I could tell...not one person who wrote had repeated a fact in any real contrived or asinine way! I don't think I saw but like...one or two posts that were just along the lines of "releas teh sorce code plz kthx", either. This is a good sign.

Also, you're forgetting that this would result in loads of new cheats. So only trustable people should get access if the impossible happens.

I suppose the best thing that EA could do is force people to sign an agreement stating that they won't charge for anything that results from the source code.

If you are relating to the exporter here, that's a completely different thing. And it won't be released anyways so stfu about it.

You're right. The creators of the bigheads, FinalRen, map hacks, and Cyberprick have all made too much money off their cheats. It has to stop today.

I dont think Nopol is nopic. He came on as another name earlier with it spelt backwards. Nopol had registered before nopic was banned.
