I'll check it out later, I'm at school right now. But good maps can take months. None of mine have taken that long. Mine are ussually a week to a month. But I'm not a great mapper. And ofcourse that's on and off maybe like 5-10 hours a week.

1 hour is nothing. Good maps can take weeks, maybe months to complete for Renegade.

Looking at that image, the map is really lacking detail everywhere.

But it's a start I guess.

If you see my maps you will run away crying of the pain in your eyes shouting Why such ugly things even exist in this perfect world.

lol, in mine you just wonder how a world that's got hardly any smoothness can exist. That and since when do textures look like crap. lol

But i guess we should get back on subject here. You should try adding more details. Especially some things to take cover by while fighting like rocks.

Yea i know map pawns. But Colors really pwns. Actually when it comes to the sunset one. I spent more time trying to compress it under 1mb than i did making it .

I suck at quoting
