I dont quite understand how the logging works for Xwiz. If there is a nickname you were able to use for WOL and does not work for Xwiz. Is there a way to get it to work?

Nicknames were not transfered over. You had to register any name you wanted over again.

All my old nickames work fine and I didn't have to register them again.

wrong, when you logged onto Xwis for the first time you registered that account. The database was not given to them as part of the deal.

I have noticed that there are more restrictions as to what is allowed in a nick with Xwis though. I think that was your question?

How can you say I am wrong? Were you sitting next to me when I logged onto Xwis for the first time? Don't think so. I have never had to register any new names, EVER.

luv is right. When you logged into XWIS for the first time, the new account was AUTOMATICALLY registered for you with the username/password you entered.

Ok, that explains it, but I still did not have to physically register it, so technically, you are not registering a new account.

Renegade remembers which usernames you use, when you play on XWIS with that account name, it will be auto-registered.

au ok IC. But now that it does'nt automatically do it for you. How do you register another nick. And some nicknames work that i have never even regustered before. So basicly when you log in as a nickname thats never been used before. It registers it?

What did WOL allow that XWIS doesn't?
